CENSORMEN

BELOW IS A PROPOSED ORDINANCE PROHIBITING ALL SORTS OF THINGS APROPOS TEENAGERS: those under 18. Appropriately reading like an obscenity, IT IS AN ORDINANCE AGAINST OBSENIITY. It is printed inordinately minute here as a visual-kineshetic pun on the deep diving smut hunters (read creators in the best tradition of "IN THE EYE OF THE BEHOLDER.") require. If the ordinance is passed we -- HELIX -- could well be busted for a bared bosom -- OH! DIRT -- and SUSAN will, ironically, be both given and denied her OH'ssssss.

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners deems it in the public interest to enact a resolution prohibiting the dissemination of indecent material to minors,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Commissioners of King County, Washington, as follows:

SECTION 1. Definition of Terms.

As used herein, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) "Harmful to Minors" means that quality of any description or representation, in whatever form, of nudity, sexual conduct, sexual excitement, or sado-masochistic abuse, when it:

(a) Predominantly appeals to the prurient, shameful or morbid interest of minors; and

(b) Is patently offensive to prevailing standards in the adult community as a whole with respect to what is suitable material for minors; and

(c) Is utterly without redeeming social importance for minors.

(2) "Minor" means any person less than 18 years of age.

(3) "Nudity" means the showing of the human male or female genitals, pubic area or buttocks with less than a full opaque covering, or the showing of the female breast with less than a fully opaque covering of any portion thereof below the top of the nipple, or the depiction of covered male genitals in a discernably turgid state.

(4) "Sexual Conduct" means acts of masturbation, homosexuality, sexual intercourse, or physical contact with a person's clothed or unclothed genitals, pubic area, buttocks or, if such person be a female, breast.

(5) "Sexual Excitement" means the condition of human male or female genitals in a state of sexual stimulation or arousal.

(6) "Sado-Masochistic Abuse" means flagellation or torture by or upon a person clad in undergarments, a mask or bizarre costume, or the condition of being fettered, bound or otherwise physically restrained on the part of one so clothed.

SECTION 2. Dissemination of Indecent Materials to Minors Unlawful.

It shall be unlawful for any person to disseminate indecent materials to minors as provided herein.

SECTION 3. Dissemination of Indecent Materials to Minors Defined.

Any person shall be deemed disseminating indecent material to a minor if he:

(1) With knowledge of its character and content, sells or loans to a minor for monetary consideration:

(a) Any picture, photograph, drawing, sculpture, motion picture film, or similar visual representation or image of a person or portion of the human body which depicts nudity, sexual conduct or sado-masochistic abuse and which is harmful to minors; or

(b) Any book, pamphlet, magazine, printed matter, however reproduced, or sound recording which contains any matter enumerated in paragraph (a) hereof, or explicit and detailed verbal descriptions or narrative accounts of sexual excitement, sexual conduct or sado-masochistic abuse and which, taken as a whole, is harmful to minors; or

(2) Knowing the character and content of a motion picture, show or other presentation which, in whole or in part, depicts nudity, sexual conduct or sado-masochistic abuse, and which is harmful to minors:

(a) Exhibits such motion picture, show or other presentation to a minor for a monetary consideration; or

(b) Sells to a minor an admission ticket or pass to premises whereon there is exhibited or to be exhibited such motion picture, show or other presentation; or

(c) Admits a minor for a monetary consideration to premises whereon there is exhibited or to be exhibited such motion picture, show or other presentation.

SECTION 4. Presumptions.

Any person who engages in the conduct prescribed herein is presumed to do so with knowledge of the character and content of the materials sold or loaned, or the motion picture, show or presentation exhibited or to be exhibited.

SECTION 5. Defense.

In any prosecution for disseminating indecent material to minors, it is an affirmative defense that:

(1) The defendant had reasonable cause to believe that the minor involved was eighteen years old or more; and

(2) Such minor exhibited to the defendant a draft card, driver's license, birth certificate or other official or apparently official document purporting to establish that such minor was eighteen years old or more.

SECTION 6. Violation a Misdemeanor.

Any person violating the terms of this resolution shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

CONZE

Phillip Cartwright, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences announced last week that President Odegaard of the University of Washington has asked Senator Magnuson to intervene to expedite the U.S. government review procedure in the case of Dr. Edward Conze. The plight of Dr. Conze, professor of Indic Studies and head of the U.W. Buddhist Studies program, was first brought to light by THE HELIX in a series of two articles. This was followed last week by three articles in the WASHINGTON DAILY.

As a result of these revelations, Dr. Conze's students began circulating petitions in his support. They had collected over 600 signatures which will be sent to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare's Exchange Visitors Waiver Review Board before which Dr. Conze's application for permanent residence status is pending. Faculty reaction in Dr. Conze's support was also strong, and there have been demands for an investigation into the handling of his case by the Far East Dept.

In an interview with the WASHINGTON DAILY, Dr. Conze said that Dr. George Taylor, who is currently on leave as chairman of the Far East Dept., deliberately held up his request for waiver of deportation and exerted pressure through connections in the State Dept. to have the waiver denied because of Dr. Conze's anti-Vietnam war views. In addition to his anti-administration opinions, Dr. Conze feels that Taylor is denying the waiver because Conze was a member of the German Communist Party from 1929 to 1933. The application for a waiver of deportation was submitted for Taylor's approval two years ago, but it was not sent until last February.

It was also revealed last week that the Far East Dept. has been accepting funds from an organization which publically admitted more than a year ago that it was receiving C.I.A. money. This is the Asia Foundation which describes itself as a private philanthropic organization. Dr. Taylor is still conveniently incognito on his honeymoon and therefore unavailable for comment. It still remains to be seen whether Dr. Conze's petition will be accepted or denied for some technicality.

JUSTICE

THE SEATTLE CITY COUNCIL, AT THE INSISTENCE OF COUNCILMAN SAM SMITH, HAS GIVEN THE SEATTLE POLICE THE TOOL THEY NEED TO ROUNDUP SCORES OF "UNDESIRABLES" AND DETAIN THEM FOR AN UNSPECIFIED TIME IN JAIL. THAT TOOL IS AN ORDINANCE EXTENDING THE POWER OF ARREST ON "PROBABLE CAUSE" TO THOSE SUSPECTED OF COMMITTING A MISDEMEANOR UNDER THE NEW ORDINANCE A PERSON CAN BE ARRESTED, SEARCHED, AND HELD IN JAIL FOR "INVESTIGATION" IF THERE IS REASONABLE EVIDENCE THAT HE COMMITTED A MISDEMEANOR: SUCH AS LOITERING OR CREATING A PUBLIC DISTURBANCE. PREVIOUSLY, MISDEMEANOR ARRESTS COULD BE MADE ONLY IF THE ALLEGED VIOLATION OCCURRED IN THE PRESENCE OF AN OFFICER. RUMOR, INFORMATION FROM INFORMERS, OR "REASONABLE SUSPICION" IN THE OFFICER'S MIND NOW BECOME GROUNDS FOR ARREST AND SEARCH UNDER THE NEW ORDINANCE.

THIS ORDINANCE BROADENS AND ENLARGES THE SCOPE OF POLICE POWERS IN AN AMBIGUOUS MANNER WHICH WILL SERVE ONLY TO ENCOURAGE ITS MISUSE. RATHER THAN DESIGNED SPECIFIC LAWS FOR SPECIFIC CRIMES, THE CITY MISDEMEANOR CODE IS HUMAN WASTE BASKET...

IN A TIME WHEN THE POWER OF THE POLICE SHOULD BE RESTRICTED AND REDEFINED, THE SEATTLE CITY COUNCIL (WITH THE PARADOXIAL SUPPORT OF A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE GROUP WHICH WILL SUFFER MOST HAS LAID ANOTHER BRICK IN THE GROWING EDIFICE OF POLICE STATE FASCISM.

The campaign of Dr. Lawrence Rose and the Berkeley BARB against the use of the "non-lethal" weapon MACE has finally produced some result. Last week the Federal Food and Drug Administration issued warnings on the use of MACE. This has forced the Los Angeles and the San Francisco Police Departments to ban its use. The Berkeley police however will continue to damage the corneas, tracheae, and bronchiae of Berkeley demonstrators and minor traffic violators.

The enlightened Seattle Police Dept., however, has never issued MACE to its forces. Instead those black cans in the belt holster around almost every cop you see contain a liquid tear gas known as Federal Streamer. The stuff is liquid until it contacts living flesh, whereupon bodily heat vaporizes it. The gas rises into eyes and nostrils effectively incapacitating the target. Federal Streamer, unlike MACE contains no central nervous system depressant.

formations

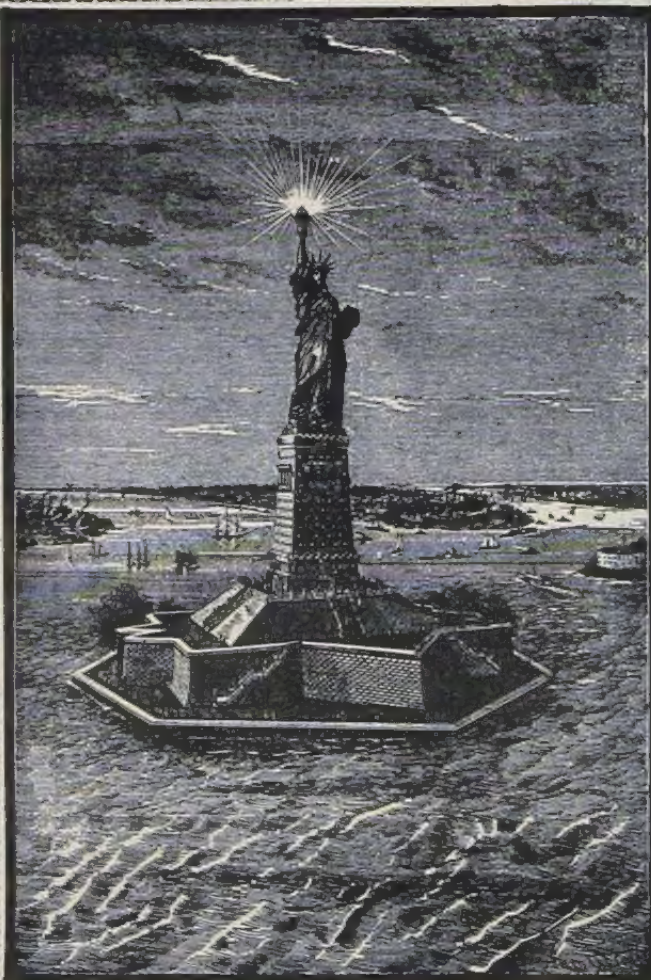

Nearly every company in the United States Army, regardless of its mission must participate in a case of instruction called "riot control". They call the basic riot control formation a wedge. The wedge was used by the troops of the Roman Army two thousand years ago to quell slave rebellions. Four squads form a single triangular line. With bayonets fixed and raised, the formation moves out on its left boot first, leaving the right boot dragging behind. The formation advances slowly stomping the ground with all its weight on the left boot. The troops are instructed to growl and yell violently while advancing. A death two-step. Drag-stomp, Drag-stomp. Anyone on the ground is crushed. Anyone standing is bayoneted.

CLASS I-O CHANGE

Until recently men who were classified as I-O (Conscientious Objector) by Washington State Local Boards were not asked to perform alternative civilian service, because no job placement arrangements had been made with other government agencies in Washington State. Such arrangements have now been made and the SSS is now prepared to and interested in forcing the issue according to Capt. Chastek, State Director of the SSS. Information on alternative service is available at the American Friends Service Committee, 814 NE 40th St.

POVERTY CAMPAIGN

The Seattle contingent of the Poor People's Campaign is making its way toward "Resurrection City", the shanty-town under construction in the heart of Washington, D.C. The Seattle bus caravan, with 27 Indians from Western Washington, 30 black people, and 4 whites (one of the whites in the caravan from Seattle was Curtis Chappel. Curtis was arrested last Oct. 21 in the demonstration at the induction center and has recently refused induction), and other bus, train, and mule-drawn wagon train caravans from all parts of the country will be converging on Washington for the Memorial Day demonstration...expected to be the largest march in the history of Our Nation's Capital.

Support demonstrations in communities all over the country are anticipated; tentative plans for a local Memorial Day demonstration are being made by the Seattle Poor People's Campaign committee, chairman Mrs. Ann Stever, 715-37th Ave. So far, $2,300 have been raised from the community in the two-week existence of the committee, but additional funds are necessary to finance the caravans of local poor people on their march on Washington as well as to continue the organizational work at the local level.

LUV AND THE GODEGO

Stumbling through his own heirarchy of paradox and paranoia, Rev. Thomas Miller has taken the saddle once more in his tilt against Bible literature classes. His motivations seem unclear at best; Bible Lit. classes may be the only exposure a student ever gets to the Word of God. And surely once the Truth is seen, it will prevail. But not so thinks the muddled minister as he threatens to carry his case to the U.S. Supreme Court in an attempt to overthrow the State Supreme Court decision. Arguing that the class constitutes a bridge in the separation of church and state, the Reverend has recently been put down by Louis Bruno, state super. of public instruction. Miller promised he would reinstitute a case in Superior Court to force the school district to get the Bible out of school.

ELDRIDGE CLEAVER

Eldridge Cleaver is running for President. The Radical Caucus and the Black-Brown Caucus of the Peace and Freedom Movement joined Black Panther spokesmen in announcing the candidacy of the author of "Soul On Ice", who is in prison recovering from wounds suffered in a gun battle April 6 in which Panther leader Bobby Hutton was killed by Oakland police. Cleaver is likely to remain in prison throughout the campaign and several years after.

Kathleen Cleaver, Panther Communications Secretary and Peace and Freedom assembly candidate, suggested at the press conference that Eldridge was reluctant to accept the candidacy. Evidently Panther Chairman Bobby Seale convinced him the "the people" wanted him. The Panthers also hope to draw added support for the reinstatement of Cleaver's parole through the campaign.

Other candidates for the national Peace and Freedom nomination to be held in July include Dick Gregory, Benjamin Spock, and Robert Williams. Some Peace and Freedom organizers feel that Cleaver's candidacy indicates that the PFP (which formed a coalition with the Panthers only recently) has become too closely allied with the Black Panther Party. Others identify Cleaver's candidacy with that of Eugene Debs in 1920, who polled close to a million votes while in prison. The Peace and Freedom Party has already split over the candidacy of Dr. Spock and will probably split over the Cleaver-Gregory ticket.

WWIII

WWIII have come and gone. Next week will be WWIV. Little more than a year after light dances were being banned because "shadow dancing" was too suggestive, a topless dancer performed to crowds of 3000 in front of the HUB.

While leftists, who helped elect him, were in-fighting at the administration building, Thom Gunn was carrying forth his inaugural celebration.

In the morning, Vicki Drake, recent loser in the Stanford student body presidential elections and topless dancer, gave her first performance as bands played in front of the HUB. The administration got uptight at the Noise, so things were moved to Columns where only engineering students would be disturbed. There, Thom gave his address, "Today has shown that there is great potential everywhere" and Vicki crowned him with a wreath of flowers.

The next big event was the KING RAT contest at Herfy's drive-in. The purpose was to select the fraternity representative to campus. Thom feels that only one is necessary since they all look the same. Contests included beer chugging, 3 seconds, proof of a paternity suit, and finally the gross out. Many contestants fought for this honor. The puker who puked on cue was close to the winner who pissed on the crowd from a balcony and then flashed a BA to the crowd. At one point a tow truck tried to clear the lot of Gunn's truck, but the air was let out of the tires.

Herfy's is suing and Gunn is circulating "Eat at Daly's" leaflets. And student government is clearly in the hands of a qualified fanatic.

STUDENT POWER

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY:

500 students attempted to take over the presidents office. 7 arrested.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON: 300 students sat in for three days. 4,000 students signed petition demanding and winning representation on the committee choosing a new president.

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO: University President yielded to demonstrators demands barely forestalling a sit-in.

ROOSEVELT U. CHICAGO: Picketing sitting-in, and barricading-in all week resulted in 50 arrests, 16 expulsions, and 24 suspensions. Protests continue at this time.

NY STATE U. AT POTSDAM: 500 demonstrated for 3 hours protesting police use of tear gas.

NEW JERSEY: 2,000 marched in a funeral symbolizing the death of higher education.

GODDARD COLLEGE: VERMONT: 5 hour sit-in to show support for the poor.

NORTHEASTERN U. BOSTON: Blacks won administration agreement with their 13 demands.

MARQUETTE UNIVERSITY: Black sympathy sit-in of 400 students was broken up by police.

Cornell: Large protest against the induction of Catholic Campus Chaplain Rev. Connor long active in anti-war actions.

Mass. Institute of Technology: Requested and was refused deferments for graduate teaching and research assistants.

University of Chicago: Student pressure resulted in closure of University files to the Selective Service System.

"Everywhere the old order's back was forced to the wall by pressures it could not control. The days of May were days of unfathomable unrest."

These lines didn't come out of Paris during the French Revolution or Moscow in the Bolshevik upheaval. They were lifted, instead, from Fendall Yerxa's column in last Sunday's P-I. Yerxa used them to set the tone for his summary of a week which brought turmoil to France, Kosygin in a hurry to an ever more liberal Czechoslovakia, and near-obsequence to members of LBJ's cabinet when they were confronted with angry marchers from the Poor People's Campaign.

Yerxa's emphasis, however, is on the youth and spontaneity of what he calls the "insurgency." This is what makes his opening lines significant. Yerxa is an old New York Times man; he's now a professor in that good gray citadel of verbose mediocrity, the UW's School of Communications. Despite his past and present, Yerxa is able to see whose back is to the wall.

Perception of this sort has not come frequently in the bigtime press during the days of this tumultuous May. At best, the reporting of campus rebellion has been confused and scattergunned, and at worst rebellion has been equated with water fights and panty raids and kissed off.

Even the underground press has underplayed or overlooked some essential developments in May's days of upheaval because of the attention naturally focused on Columbia and Stanford. Almost nobody has mentioned the small groups of students who keep going back to sit in at the administration building at Roosevelt University in Chicago and who are busted every single time.

The situation is similar at places like Delaware State University and Cheyney State College (Pennsylvania) where black students are slowly winning endurance tests. Delaware, at last report, was shut down; Cheyney has re-opened with most black demands met.

Then there's a heroine who almost has been forgotten in the bigness of the rebellion at Columbia—Linda LeClair of Barnard. She was "convicted" for living with her man off campus, but allowed to remain in school. Then she sat in at Columbia, and Barnard said it didn't want her any more. Late last week, Barnard's dean, surrounded by an angry crowd of students who threatened to shut the place down, let Linda back in.

PROTESTS SPREAD

At Florida State University, Berkeley's Free Speech game is being replayed Southern-style. When students protested against censorship of the campus paper, the president, admitting he was not only up against the wall but almost going through it backwards, said he'd quit. His offer almost settled matters except that some alumni and jocks forced the president back through the wall forwards again and told him to retract the offer. The protest continued.

Black students won demands at both Northwestern and Princeton. The Northwestern protesters took over the administration building for a time. At Princeton, 60 black students staged a two-day sit-in.

The action came back to Berkeley briefly last Friday. Many more than the thousand students who had scheduled a protest against the war joined in the actual event. Gov. Reagan made a lot of noise before the protest but began blending quietly into the wall when he found he couldn't do a thing about it.

Stanford seems to be hung up on words for the moment. The administration mumbles almost incoherently warnings about future camp-outs on the campus lawns and nobody really pays much attention.

One of the least-publicized events of the past two weeks took place in Topeka, Kansas, where General Hershey came to town to talk to Rotarians and had to be kept under wraps because of protests from students in the area. Nobody was busted.

N.Y. TIMES OVERLOOKS

As this week opened, the action was starting to concentrate again on the biggest campuses—and Paris was the biggest campus of all. Despite reports from the straight press (particularly the New York Times) that labor wasn't sympathetic to the protests of students who already had taken over most of France's universities, Paris was crippled by Monday as the result of a spreading general strike.

A personnel problem at the Times also resulted in the overlooking of widespread student demonstrations in Madrid, Spain. At the end of last week, scanty wire service reports out of Madrid were hinting at a disruption like that in Paris. The Times' Madrid correspondent, who had been reporting rather accurately on previous Madrid student uprisings, was in Czechoslovakia for the hot summer of liberalization.

New York cops may have learned something from their first invasion of Columbia, if press service reports can be believed. The fuzz were called in last Saturday to remove students and Harlem residents from an apartment house owned by Columbia. No blood was shed, according to the press reports. But Mark Rudd, SDS leader at Columbia, was arrested and details of the bust were slim.

The violence provoked by New York City cops in their riotous invasion of Columbia late last month only now is starting to reveal its bloodiest details. In last week's issue, the Village Voice describes how the copy of New York Times reporters was doctored to play down cop violence. Both the Voice and the New York Free Press identify Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, Times president and publisher, as a member of Columbia's board of trustees.

It was the New York Post, usually a vapid afternoon rewrite of the morning Times, which first uncovered cop violence for readers of daily papers. The first real disclosure came, unbelievably, from the CBS-TV station in New York and (oh no) Walter Winchell, that menopausal Neanderthal freak of all freaks. Winchell, who is like 70 something, was roughed up by a cop. He's been complaining ever since about the violence at Columbia that morning.

Many of our readers stick their heads out

(Maybe you should join the club)

Not even Monday's "world war II", declared by ASUW president Thom Gunn, surpassed the preceeding Friday's actions in confusion and, at times, absurdity. Friday was the traditional "Governor's Day" program, an annual event of long standing at the University. The ROTC cadets do their thing for the governor at the stadium. The day is also devoted to the campus left's equally traditional, equally annual protest against the presence of ROTC at the University of Washington. A new element and emphasis for the protest was provided by the intervention this year of the black liberation struggle.

Since May 13 the Black Student Union has been negotiating with the University bureaucracy over a list of proposals presented to President Odegaard May 10. The demands, which were "accepted in principle" by the university, ask for recruitment of a specific number of black, Mexican American and American Indian students by the opening of the next school year. The recruitment is to be carried out by the BSU. Further the proposals ask for a "Black Studies Planning Committee", to develop a department of black studies, the recruitment of black teachers and administrators, black representation on the music program and consultation with the BSU by the administration on all "decisions, plans and programs affecting the lives of black students."

The BSU officers found themselves, after Odegaard's "agreement in principle" in a seemingly endless round of meetings with professors, department heads, administrations representatives and all other concerned with the proposed changes in the university. Most of the burden for explaining and beginning the black studies planning committee fell on the BSU. When BSU representatives suggested that they should be paid for the time they were spending helping the university to understand the black studies program, they were laughed at. This may have been the last straw for the BSU; by last Thursday they came to the conclusion that the university was giving them a run-around and was not really interested in implementing the black studies and recruitment program. If the negotiations dragged out through summer quarter, the BSU felt, the delay would make it near impossible to recruit the amount of minority group students which they wanted.

THURSDAY DEMANDS

Thursday morning E.J. Brisker of the BSU phoned the following demands to President Odegaard:

- 1) That President Odegaard pledge $50,000 for the institution of the Black Studies Program.
- 2) That the fund would be administered with the aid of the BSU.
- 3) That a black studies planning committee composed of three students, two members of the faculty, and one administrator be inaugurated, and that the student members of this commission be paid by the University commensurate with their participation.
- 4) That President Odegaard publically state his reply to the demands.

Thursday afternoon the BSU informed SDS, the Vietnam Committee and members of "Black and White Concern" (an anti-racist group which grew out of the "soul search" inter-racial dialogue program) of its actions. The BSU wished to present all of its demands to Governor Evans at the Governor's Day program. It was conceded by all that any action on Friday would have to be carried out with a great deal of skill. In the aftermath of last year's anti-rotc demonstration, a wild confrontation which resulted in two draft card burnings and the arrest of the SDS president for disorderly conduct, the administration had informed students that any disruptive demonstration would result in arrests and expulsions, which in the context of petitioning Governor Evans, could have no important good effect. The agreed upon plan called for white students to rally in front of the HUB and march to the stadium, where they would join a group led by BSU members made up of participants from the black community.

FRIDAY CONFUSION

Friday was a very confusing day, it would be difficult to report all the meetings which took place, decisions which were made and plans which were made and unmade. In the afternoon, before the scheduled white rally, the area in front of the HUB was jammed. People were drawing and writing on the cement, passing out flowers and leafleting. A historic and unusual leaflet appeared at noon; for the first time in recorded history the remote and dignified university administration took to the streets with a leaflet of its own. Entitled "Let's Stop a Crisis", the document claimed that the Thursday demands violated agreements reached by representatives of the BSU and the administration. It outlined what the University said was constructive progress made in the week's negotiation sessions. The leaflet was signed by Charles Evans, chairman of the university senate; Philip Carwright, dean of the college of arts and sciences; Professor Eugene Elliott, special assistant to the president and Charles E. Odegaard himself. The document ended with the message that "today's rally (i.e. the action at the stadium) violates the constructive atmosphere of Monday's discussion. Yesterday's demands do not provide a basis for continued progress...let us all keep working together in lifting our University." Representatives of the BSU called the leaflet a distortion of the truth, but the document created enough doubts in enough minds about the BSU's Thursday demands to significantly limit the number of student marchers; following the rally, about 200 made the trek to the stadium.

Following speeches by Jimmy Garrett, of the Black Panther Party of Northern California, E.J. Birsner and Carl Miller of the BSU and Ed Morman, of U of W SDS, the students marched to the university stadium, expecting to join with a large group of black ralliers from the community, there was no significant black community participation in the action, it was over-whelmingly white. After entering the stadium the marchers waited in the stands while three officers of the BSU went to the reviewing stand and presented their demands to Governor Evans. While this was happening the main group of marchers amused themselves by singing "Take me out to the ballgame", whistling the Colonel Bogey March and shaking their signs in time with the bands on the field. The demonstrators left shortly after the demands were presented.

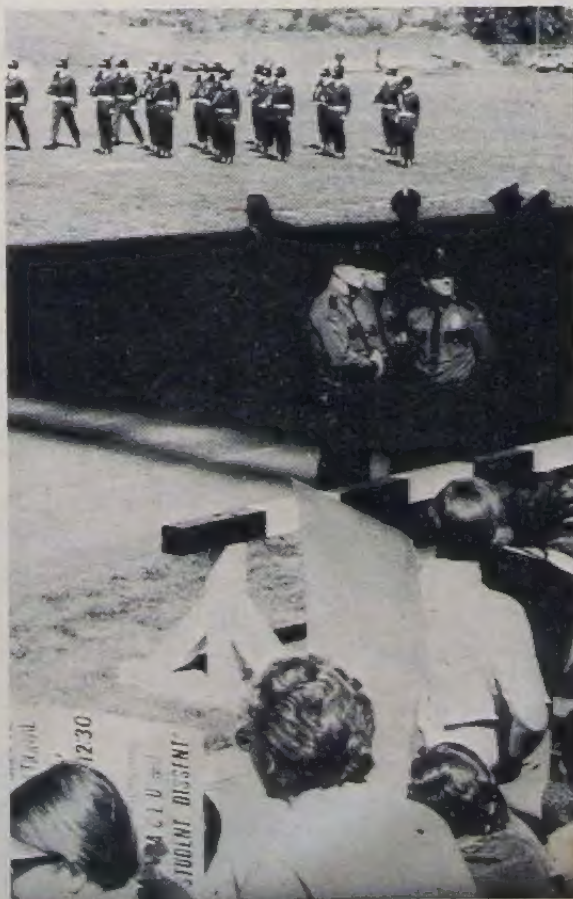

Governor Evans agreed to meet with BSU representatives and President Odegaard Monday.

MONDAY SIT-IN

Monday, in the aftermath of Doctor Odegaard's refusal to meet with them till later in the week, the BSU decided that a militant action was the only way to force the university to act. Throughout the morning, white students picketed the administration in support of the BSU demands. While some students picketed others (members of SDS, the Vietnam Committee and Black and White Concern) met with the BSU. The agreed-upon plan was for the white students to continue their support action outside the ad building while blacks sat in.

At 5:20, 10 minutes before the building closed BSU members and some black high school students began filing into the building. At that time some of the white students also went in. Vice president Thieme, meeting at the time with members of the faculty senate executive committee in the regents room, net the blacks in the lobby and invited them to come into the meeting, the meeting ended soon after. Six members of the faculty senate remained behind. The U of W Daily said that the six remained "trying to hammer out a compromise." E.J. Brisker, president of the BSU announced at 6:40 that the faculty members had agreed to "sit in" with the demonstrators.

A large crowd made up of supporters of the action, hecklers and the curious had gathered by this time and watched as supplies and two white supporters were hoisted to the third-floor room via ropes. The group inside was around 50-60. Throughout the sit-in Odegaard remained in his office.

POLICE WAITING ON CAMPUS

Around 7:30 eight fully-loaded police cars arrived, accompanied by a paddy wagon. Private cars were kept off campus by the university security officers, also out in full force. The ritual of warning the demonstrators was performed by Vice president for student affairs, D.K. Anderson. He advised them that the ad building was closed, that he was requesting them to leave in 15 minutes, that the security officers would take such action as was necessary, etc. At that point Mike Rosen, staff attorney for the ACLU, arrived and was able to quickly negotiate a compromise between the BSU and the university.

The compromise promised that the faculty senate and Odegaard would, at the next senate meeting pledge to "continue to take the steps necessary to secure the funds from private or public sources and to implement the above demands" (i.e. expanded recruitment of "minority group" students an expanded black student program, consultation with the BSU). The BSU claimed victory, Odegaard says it was nothing of the sort, the compromise was merely a restatement of his original reply to the BSU demands. Shortly after the compromise was signed the demonstrators filed out of the building to the cheers of their supporters outside.

The situation remains confused: does the pledge mean anything? Will progress be made towards implementation of the demands? The BSU says that if the situation hasn't changed, they're going to back at the ad building. Negotiations continue.

George Arthur

The Columbia rebellion broke out again almost in full force Monday of this week. Led by Mark Rudd, 200 people - students, parents, and 3 lawyers - occupied Hamilton Hall. Kirk's demand that Rudd and other leaders of the earlier rebellion appear at the dean's office or face suspension brought about the new invasion and sit-in.

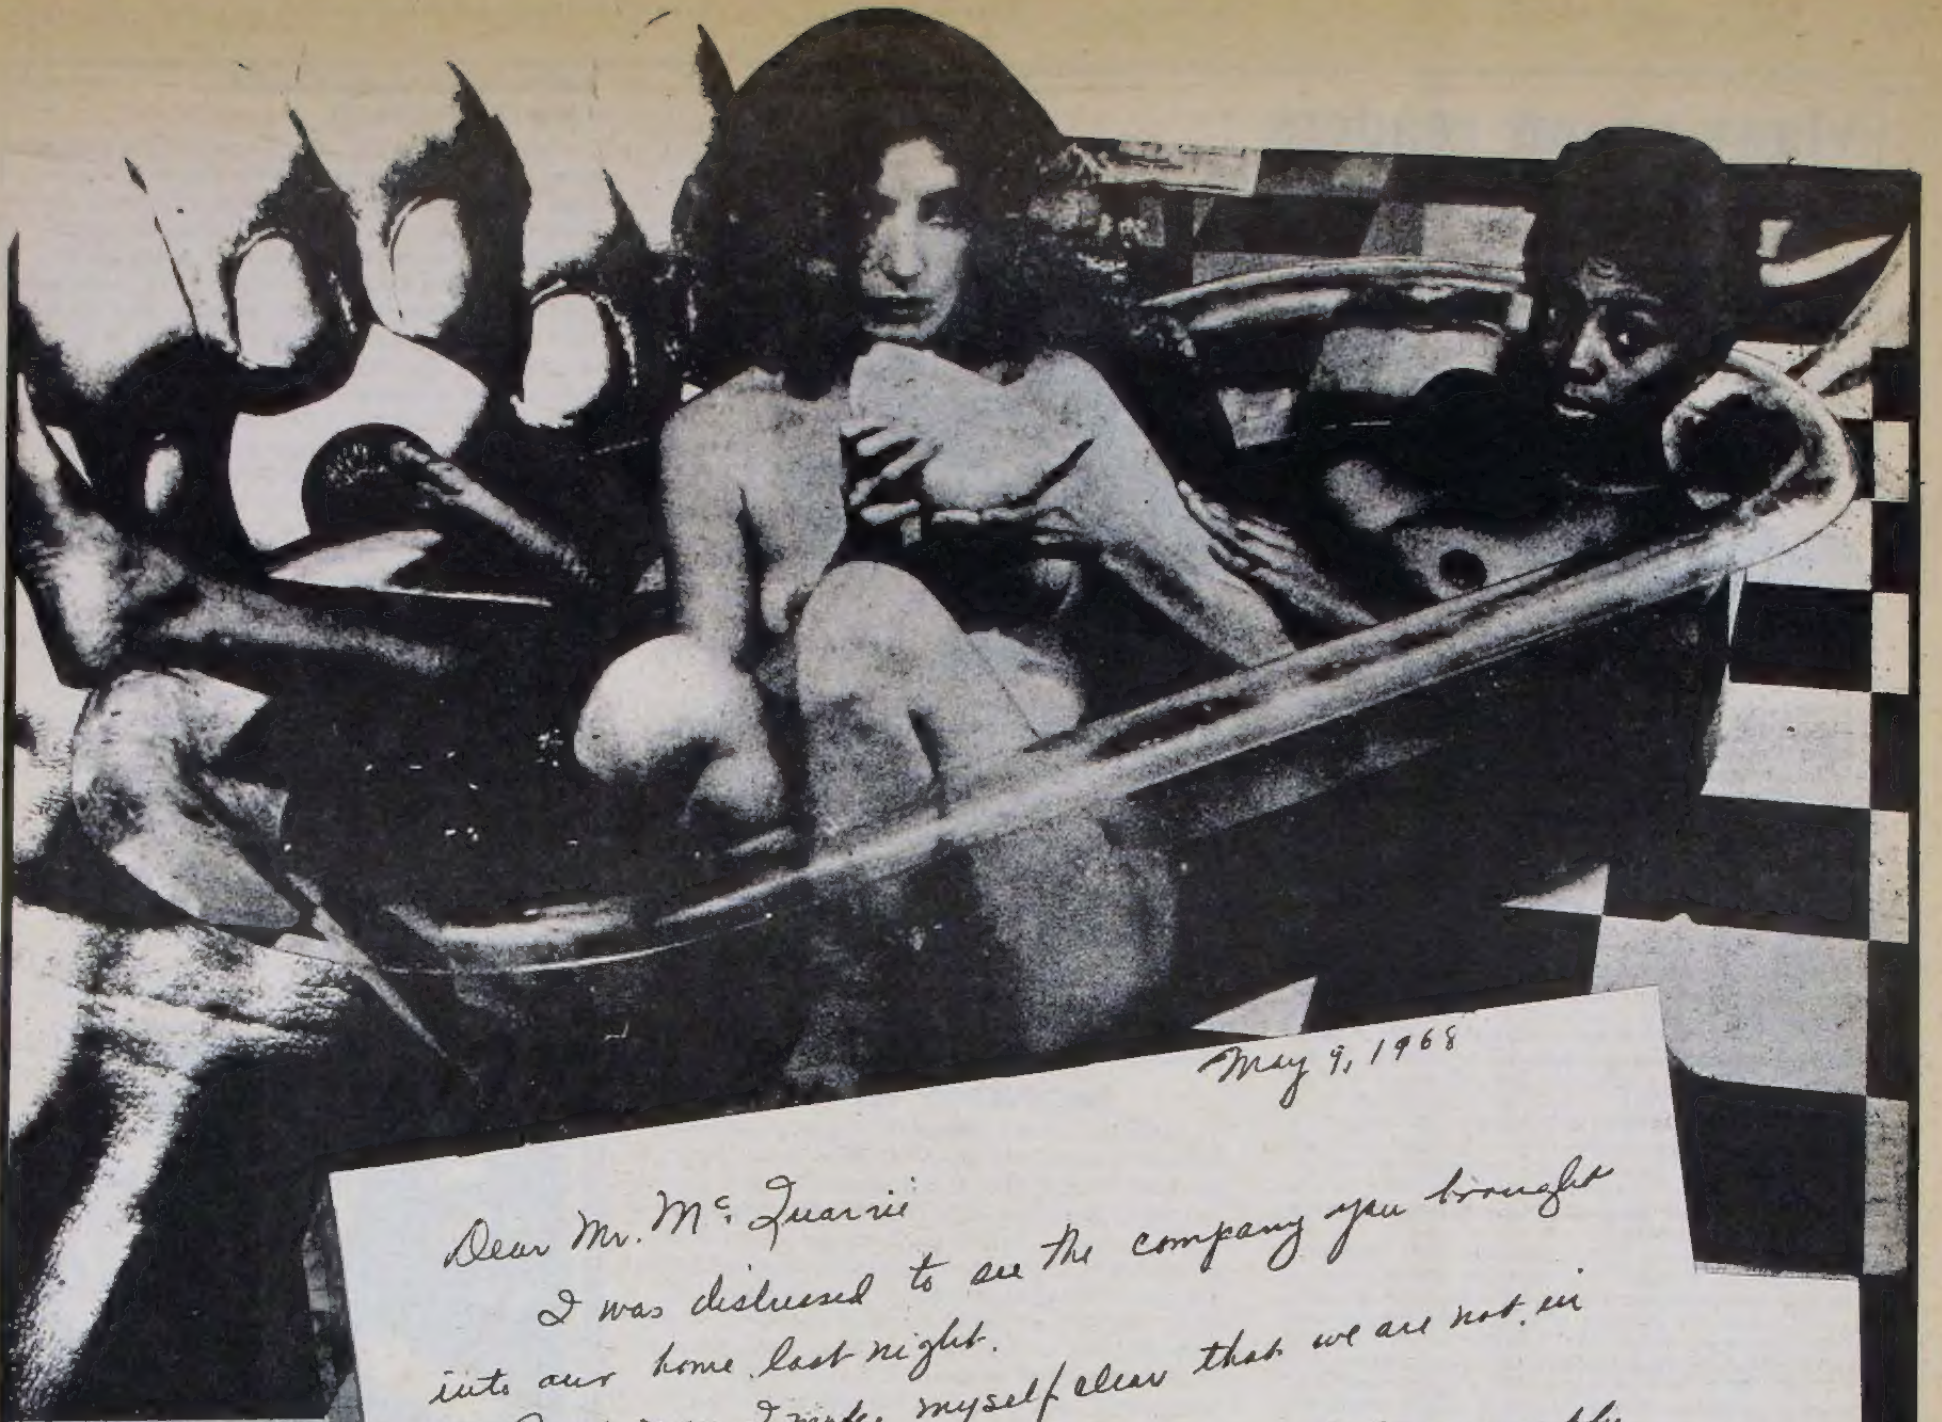

Again, Kirk called the cops. And again, the cops built up their forces through the night and finally struck early in the morning. Hamilton was emptied with less violence than in the previous cop riot. But later in the morning, violence hit Columbia again, nightsticks swung freely and heads were bloodied.

Sometime during the night, one of the cats who had been in on most of the past month's action at Columbia suddenly turned to Rudd, pulled out a badge and arrested him on at least four charges.

Kirk turned up somewhere on campus later Tuesday and issued a statement to the press. In it, he said he would never grant amnesty to the students.

Otherwise, it's very normal at Columbia - If normalcy is a cop at every entrance demanding ID to prove you're a student.

Dear Mr. M^cQuarrie

I was distressed to see the company you brought into our home last night.

Just may I make myself clear that we are not in favor of the "hippie movement".

I expect the people who live here to be reasonably well groomed and the men to have their hair cut and the guests to look like people we would like to entertain. Your friend was so frightening my little girl hated to go out and get in her car to go to church.

I would not want the neighbors to be able to criticize us either & since we live next door to a police officer I am sure we would be watched. There has already been too much trouble in our nice University district over the hippie problem.

Another thing my other tenants would be troubled by the appearance of long haired males in this household and I do not feel it is fair to them to let this continue.

I trust you will see things our way. We all want to get along, but respect must be shown to all of us. If you feel this request is unreasonable then I suggest you look for another apartment when your month is up.

Sincerely
Helen Bebech

SHAW TRIAL

NEW ORLEANS (LNS)--District Attorney Jim Garrison's office has set June 11 as a tentative trial date for Clay L. Shaw, who is accused of involvement in a conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy. The Shaw trial has been delayed on several occasions, but it can be delayed again only if a defense appeal to the Federal courts is successful.

Shaw lost a motion for a change of venue, which would have moved the trial out of New Orleans, in March and subsequently appealed the ruling to the state Supreme Court. The court refused to hear the appeal, on the grounds that trial court proceedings must come first.

In order to appeal to the Federal courts, defense attorneys must show that there is Federal jurisdiction.

Shaw was indicted by the New Orleans Grand Jury and a three-judge panel in March, 1967, but defense attorneys have succeeded in delaying the trial several times. Shaw is formally charged with "conspiring with David Ferrie, Lee Harvey Oswald and others to murder President Kennedy."

SPOCK TRIAL

The government is stacking the cards against Dr. Spock and his co-defendants in their Boston trial on charges of inciting draft resistance. The 12-man jury selected last Monday included no women despite the objections of the defense, Leonard Boudin. Apparently, the government prosecutor fears some deeply ingrained womanly affection for the author of the book they all leafed through in the dark nights of pregnancy, whose wisdom lead them through the trials of nursing, whose fatherly advice helped them raise a generation the government finds its powerless to control. With the conviction of Dr. Spock and the new Internal Securities Act (see Helix May 9) anti-draft councilors will be forced underground and copies of Dr. Spock's seditious book will be burned in the streets by govt. troops.

DRAFT RESISTORS DRIVE

April 28th, the first day of daylight savings time, we left for the National Resistance Conference...after arranging forty-three pieces of luggage and four people (one heavy hippie, one short resistor, one horny black militant, and one sorority chic cleverly disguised as Suzy Creamcheese)...we left!!

The first day of the trip was one hassle after another. Stopping for lunch at a house of pancakes, we were harassed by waitresses and hostile stares from all sides (the whole trip was one long hostile stare)...and we were on the road again...we finally gave up in Mesoula, Montana (where we found the resistance alive and well).

We crashed at a fellow resistor's house...placing ourselves accordingly in the living room...the short resistor and the heavy hippie in the middle--the horny black militant and Suzy Creamcheese on opposite sides of the room. Everyone sacked out immediately and dreamed accordingly...the short resistor of being a silly millimeter longer, the heavy hippie of being even heavier, Suzy of doing a nasty on the steps of the Pentagon, and the horny black militant had wet dreams.

4:30 the next morning: Suzy awoke to find horny sitting on top of her stomach..."HUH?...Get outta of that bed, Woman!"...and we were on the road again....

Dinner that night was in rapid city South Dakota...home of the life-size dinosaurs on the hill...after supper we passed the time getting lost in the badlands ("but I tell you this IS the right road!" "We've been on this road for forty-five minutes and where has it gotten us? Don't just sit there, man, make a U and let's go back!")

We finally arrived at the conference six hours late...it was a miracle that we arrived at all, really, because everyone in the car thought the conference was being held in Chicago when it turned out to be in a bible camp just outside of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

The conference was held to discuss what the resistance really is (some groups did not even advocate non-cooperation as a part of their program), to decide when the next national draft card turn would be (the date is November 14th), to set up effective and efficient national communications, to discuss finances (Dave Harris suggested a national concert tour featuring Joan Baez, Simon and Garfunkel, The Doors, and Judy Collins. The money from this tour would be distributed among the resistance groups across the country according to size and need). Through workshops, organizing tactics, summer programs, pros and cons of resistance communes and other topics were discussed.

Almost every group had one thing in common: They wanted everyone else to know that they were the most organized and best functioning group in the country. The introduction period when a representative from each resistance spoke briefly on what his organization was doing and the problems they were having doing it turned into a two hour ego tripping session.

On the second day of the conference, one of the cooks overheard someone talking about draft card turn-ins. She notified the other cooks of this find and they all promptly burned their spoons and walked out...that night we had cold leftovers...

I would say that on the whole the conference was a success. Everyone met lots of groovy people, there was a lot of cats getting stoned before, after, and during the workshops (despite the pleas of the sponsoring resistance to "Leave Mary Jane at Home", grass was abundant) and no one learned anything political.

TIDS

Seven SNCC members were arrested and charged with armed robbery earlier this month in Los Angeles. This is the latest in a series of police attacks on SNCC. Last month the police raided the LA SNCC office arrested five members and caused property damages totaling $5,000.

The House of Representatives has responded to recent events at Columbia University and other schools by voting to deny loans, grants, and other educational aids to students who take part in "campus riots, sit-ins, seizures, and other disruptions." The House decision, made May 10, involves over $1 billion. Similar restrictions were placed on National Science Foundation monies.

Muhammed Ali lost his draft appeal when New Orleans Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower court's decision denying him conscientious objector status on the basis of his Muslim ministership. The lower court has sentenced Muhammed Ali to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine. The case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

HUAC BLUES

RESISTANCE PRESS

CHICAGO (RP)--The House Unamerican Activities Committee faces what could be a mortal blow, when it stands trial in a test of its constitutionality here in June. The pending showdown, which HUAC lawyers are trying mightily to dodge, is the result of a recent 3-judge federal court decision in the civil suit of Dr. Jeremiah Stamler, M.D., and Mrs. Yolanda Hall against the Committee.

In unanimously rejecting a motion to dismiss the civil suit, the judges also ordered that HUAC must make available documents needed to review its 30-year history.

"After two and half years of litigation, which included efforts to punish Dr. Stamler and Mrs. Hall by indictment for Contempt of Congress, the Committee will now have to defend its practices and purposes," says Dr. Paul Dudley White, chairman of the Jeremiah Stamler Legal Aid Fund.

The action brought against HUAC by Attorney Albert E. Jenner, Jr., will test the Act of Congress which established the Committee, the HUAC proceedings that took place in Chicago on May 25-27, 1965, and subpoenas served on Dr. Stamler and Mrs. Hall.

Meanwhile, criminal charges stemming from the May 1965 hearings are still pending against Stamler, Mrs. Hall, and a third person, Milton M. Cohen.

In order not to render moot their civil case against HUAC, Dr. Stamler and Mrs. Hall had refused to be questioned by the Committee.

Stamler, a bio-medical research scientist, was named winner of the Albert Lasker Award in Medical Journalism for his co-authorship of a series of articles on the prevention of heart disease, on the same day that he was subpoenaed to appear before HUAC.

In the past 20 years alone, more than 3,000 people have been called before HUAC.

BACCHUS UNCHAINED

The National Alcoholic Beverage Control Association (the president is a retired Admiral) met at the Olympic Hotel last week to discuss various aspects of liquor control. Representatives from the 18 state controlled liquor monopolies decided that they constitute a vital factor in controlling urban uprisings. One official recommended arming liquor board officials and possibly recruiting a private army to guard the booze during civil disorders. Others suggested closing down liquor stores, cocktail lounges and taverns county-wide during riots to prevent "boot-legging." All pledged inter-state cooperation in control of the vital fluids in times of stress.

The Guardians of the Establishment High feel alcohol is the fuel feeding the flames of disorder and chaos. The Distilled Grain Liquid Communion when taken by those not in a State of Grace become the tool of the Devil and leads to Crime In The Streets. Thusly, the Plenipotentiaries of Wine (the sacrament of Dionysius) call out the eunuch armies to protect the Holy Temples and quell the slave rebellion. The Admiral watches the battle on TV and sips a Scotch and water while directing his troops.

CHICAGO

AN OPEN LETTER TO MAYOR DALEY

(The following is the full text of a letter to Chicago's Mayor, Richard J. Daley, from Abraham Peck, editor of THE SEED, a Chicago underground paper.)

On Thursday, April 25, a mass arrest was made at 2120 N. Clark St. Six members of the Chicago police department burst into a meeting of the Youth International Party (YIP) and questioned and/or searched the 70 people in attendance. Eighteen were charged with disorderly conduct, one with resisting arrest, and one with drug possession.

The daily newspapers reported the event as a "hippie party." Why? The apartment was variously stated to have been under surveillance for a period ranging from four days to two weeks. Why? Was the operation by the police department a bona fide attempt to confiscate drugs or was it... something more?

There are over 100 "underground" newspapers in the nation, and every one of them has run articles on the proposed Festival of Life scheduled for Grant Park during the last week of August. An attempt was made to gain a permit from both your honor and your commissioners when a delegation of interested Chicagoans and New Yorkers came to the Civic Center in early March. No response has been forthcoming.

Whatever your feelings on the legitimacy of this "Do-In," whatever inconvenience it may cause the Democratic National Convention, whatever trepidation you have about it siphoning policemen out of the potentially volatile South and West Sides, you MUST realize that it is too late to stop thousands of young people from coming to Chicago during the month of August. If they have a place to go and do the things that form the basis of the subcultural life-style, much grief on both sides might be avoided. The alternative is to have them disperse through the entire city and become involved in the incidents that you most fear. Do you wish to be known as the mayor who Revolutionized Chicago?

It is your choice. The forces at your disposal are more than sufficient to stifle any efforts by YIP organizers to lay the Festival's groundwork. But are they sufficient to contend with a different type of guerrilla activity? Are they sufficient to answer public outrage as the sons and daughters of the white middle class, your white middle class, are arrested, beaten, or worse?

The SEED has opposed many actions of the city government during its year of existence. Yet both you and it share a common desire to avoid bloodshed and needless hardship. It might be advantageous to thousands of people if you or a relevant city official would meet with those involved in planning the Festival. I and this paper would be happy to serve as intermediaries. Walt Kowalsky
Er...I really haven't the vaguest notion of what to write about and I have to write it in 45 minutes. So in lieu of anything rational I'll take a stab at the "Death of Reason".

It has become fashionable in intellectual circles (otherwise known as spirals) to either lament or kick the corpse of the intellect. This process in itself is indicative of an advanced state of decay (it stinketh!)

I feel eminently qualified to comment on this new trend in modern thought because whereas everyone else is reading Foucault or Cioran, I'm still reading Voltaire.

The intellect has an insatiable appetite. In the last century it finished off God and now its starting to nibble at its own substance. Intellectuals have always been cannibals but it is only recently that they've taken to devouring their own intellects. It is ironic that the teeth in their jaws are words.

The catchword is revolt, revolt against consciousness. The awareness of being frustrates being. It suspends one, freezes thought at the instant it jumps the synapse. Consciousness exiles man from nature and from himself.

And consciousness is the culprit. The consciousness manifesting itself in this article (if at all) is the bossman. It and its favorite lackey, language, are not blessings or tools, they are despots, riding the back of existence. I am not writing this sentence, language is writing it.

Semantics, the science appointed to study language, has ended up terrorized by language. Language is not a convenient tool utilized by man to further his understanding. Language is understanding. It is inherent, irreducible, tyrannic—it is the granite of the prison of consciousness. It is not the media of thought, it is the message!

Man, using reason, perceived an ordered universe. But he discovered that what he thought was a window was actually a mirror. The system he misconstrued as the cosmos was merely the symbolic representation for the electro-colloidal image within his own cortex.

Plato asked, ironically "What is truth?" No one answered him. Everyone tried to answer him but no one could.

The will for an answer which is not forthcoming is the unique malaise of mankind. It is called absurdity, it burns like indigestion or depending on your brand of existentialism, Nausea. Camus describes absurdity as the product of the irreconcilable confrontation of man in search of truth with a universe containing none. Truth is, finally, just a word.

Because man is what he is, his existence is absurd. His awareness of his existence is his existence because that which he is not conscious of doesn't exist. But then that which he is aware of doesn't exist either, it just seems to. To cease being aware, particularly of awareness, would violate the definition of man.

Perhaps the Death of Man is, if not already achieved, imminent. But if the intellect succeeds in doing itself in it won't really matter. The awareness of death is a sure sign of life.

Suicide is the supreme acknowledgment of life. The intellect with all its words and symbols and games is not inviting death it is frantically embracing life.

What is dying, is an illusion, the myth of awareness coinciding with isness. It won't alter the intellect; it will continue to play its games, to write graffiti on the universe's back side. Reality won't change, just its authenticity, if that, for Reality is a Brand-Name illusion and people simply insist on believing what the label says.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I am Art DeWitt, a Peace and Freedom Candidate, running on the Democratic ticket for the U.S. Senate for the second time. I opposed Senator Jackson four years ago.

My platform has not changed since then but times, opinions, and problems certainly have.

Here are four of the issues I upheld in my last campaign. THE ANSWER IS STILL "YES" ON ALL FOUR OF THEM.

(1) A reopening of the Kennedy assassination and release of all pertaining documents held in the National Archives under Presidential decree for seventy five years.

Chief Justice Warren has publically stated that the documents would probably not be made public in our lifetime due to the fact they might endanger 'national security.'

In a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post (3/26/68) there is an article by Researcher Wise, who has managed to pry loose a few of these highly classified documents.

I challenge anyone to show me where there is any matter in any of them that could even be slightly related to national security although I can easily see where by withholding these facts the case against Lee Harvey Oswald Jr. became much more firmly established in the public mind.

Of course there is the possibility that the real assassin or assassins and the mind behind the atrocity might feel the people would revolt in natural revulsion against a group perpetuating such a terrible act. This of course would endanger national security with the possibility of open revolt. Think about it.

(2) Legalize Marijuana NOW.

At this time it gives an excuse for law enforcement officials to make headline arrests on Pot Busters while killer drugs like morphine, heroin, etc., are too easily available at national syndicate levels, making it possible for enormous payoffs to syndicate heads and their flunkies—some of whom have held high establishment offices for a lifetime.

(3) Reduce legal age for minors from 21 to 18. If they are old enough to be sent to their deaths for their country, they certainly should be allowed to vote for it.

(4) Get out of Viet-Nam!

This was my key theme four years ago. It still is today. My opponent, Senator Warren Magnusen, acts as though he had an interest in Boeing and might be in line for some profit every time one of those $500 million dollars jobs of the taxpayers' money is shot down.

At any rate both he and Jackson have backed Johnson in the Escalation of the war in Viet-Nam.

TALK

"The value of commercial land has fallen approximately 20% and the value of residential property roughly 10% in Negro areas of Los Angeles as a result of the rioting and civil disorders that swept the Watts section there two years ago last August." This little statistical curiosity is the lead sentence of a new release circulated to large metropolitan dailies by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. It is part of a "study measuring the loss of real estate values caused by rioting (and also by 'hippies')." It is the comparison that is most interesting. While the Blacks are liberally patronized — it is conceded that "real progress can be made by the Negro community, (read Ghetto) if the new-found spirit and awareness is not stunted by lack of financing and support from the white community and is not nullified by prevailing prejudices." — the "hippies" — who on Sunset Boulevard had such a depressing value on retail sales that they were off 30% — are typified as motivated by twisted and devilish desire. "With this group it seems that civil disobedience is 'fun and games' and the current way of life... They simply come into the area and congregate during the week-end evenings, and generally 'raise hell.' ...stopping traffic, rockling buses and causing general disorders so that police have to be called in at regular intervals to disperse the crowds and make arrests." To the white business establishment the sheer power of unadmitted black complaints has necessitated a liberal tone with talk of "unprejudice at least. But the break their own children are making from classical cuboid ennui is like a covert disturbance in their own sated craws. Sometimes the reactions are "and I will spew thee out of my mouth! or the hippie is the new nigger.

Recently, a confused but concerned group of district businessmen met. They invited along what they thought were hippie leaders to discuss the "hippy problem on the ave." This however was not their principle confusion. That is rather the businessman's conflict whether or not to recognize the existence of "these people" they call "hippies." Those fascinated with standing around on streetcorners are inhibiting traffic in and out of the shops and frightening away the more money carrying customers from Bellevue. Thus after the dope and dirt the cash is thinning. If we operate out of the businessman's assumptions regarding rights and property then his complaints are understandable. So the problem is: how to lift the depression off of the business traffic. (1) Talk to all those leaders. Or call an assembly and expect 5 or 6 thousand. (or 2.) Bring in the students. Ameliorate the image of the ave. Open businesses that attract students: like taverns. Mixing hippies and students would raise that bohemian-intellectual atmosphere that attracts patronage. But Baptists object to bear so their will be no alcoholic amnesty. (or 3.) Hire business representatives who will attempt to persuade these people that the ave is not for them. So more police involvement has been requested for this spring and it has come. Here we must be tolerant and deal kindly with what amounts to the sometimes naive and sometimes a little self-righteous disposition of these proprietors. Using the MINORS-DRUGS appeal — about which they are genuinely concerned — and having not yet learned to be cool and so liberated about other peoples freedoms too (including minors) the spectre of pubescent addiction is enough to preclude the chances of talk and what's more of learning the game of their representatives: The Police-Game.

The Police-Game is the old old story that hurts to hear and makes for depressing weary copy.

SOME MOVES IN THE POLICE GAME BY WAY OF REACTION.

- (1) Jay Walking — if you do it on 42nd or if you do it and look strange expect to be searched and possibly taken away.
- (2) Hitch-hiking — if you do it expect the possibility of spending the next 72 hours in jail....frequently without a call out.
- (3) Traffic tickets — if you have some old ones you might be visited some morning by officers who have entered your home without a search warrant and while arresting you they will make a little search.
- (4) Minor — being one: — You will be searched
- (5) And photographed and re-photographed.
- (6) and taken to the Wallingford precinct on "suspicion of narcotics"
- (7) and have your hair cut.
- (8) and not be advised of your "new" rights to counsel.
- (9) In almost all cases you will be later released with the charges dropped.
- (10) If you wear a surplus military jacket —which is not illegal — you might be arrested for "impersonating an officer."
- (11) If new on the "scene" you might be taken on a "field investigation."
- (12) Motorcycles — they might come at you down the sidewalk.
- (13) Grass — occasionally they will threaten to plant evidence and/or plant evidence. (14) etc.

That the Police-Game exists is no fiction. Now with the real and requested saturation of the district by "local, state and federal" police operating on beat or in marked and unmarked cars or attired in uniform or plainclothes looking and searching on the street and from the window and in the alleys it is time to talk.

There should be an overt and real indication on the part of the businessmen that they are interested in making an up-front request that their problems be solved without representation. First they must also cool the drug-hysteria. Its silly and distracting. There is a nucleus of businessmen who are willing to do just that. They will help find a suitable location for a job-corps and a free-action center which will be by all standards more fragrant than the coffee-coral. This requires a reciprocity. Lift the paranoia and then talk a little and then if you want to do something else drop in almost anywhere and start doing it. Start moving. For instance, if anyone is interested in helping with a job-corps call up and we — Helix — will help to get it going.

Finally, if nothing happens and the heat gets hotter so will the reaction.

SPOCK AT U.W.

After much delay and hassle the University of Washington will see a "Vietnam Convocation", the evening of Memorial Day, May 30. The event, similar to ones held or being planned for a number of other universities is designed to give moral encouragement to those men who "have decided on the basis of strong moral convictions they cannot serve in this unjust and repressive war." The ceremony is being sponsored by a number of U of W anti-war groups under the name "Ad Hoc Committee on a Vietnam Convocation" as well as the Greater Seattle Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam.

Much of the controversy about the event centered around the question of its "public" nature. The University administration was unwilling to open it up to the non-campus community. But a formula has been arrived at; the event is open to students, their families, faculty and their families and any clergy or layman concerned about Vietnam. The sponsors of the convocation emphasize that the event is in no way related to the regular university commencement ceremony.

Speakers who have accepted invitations to appear include Benjamin Spock, Reverend William Sloan Coffin, Muhammad Ali and General H.B. Hester. Because of the trial date of Dr. Spock and Rev. Coffin (May 20) on charges of "conspiracy" to obstruct the draft and the war, there is some doubt that they will be able to attend.

The format will resemble that of a regular university graduation ceremony and is specifically honoring that who have signed a campus pledge for draft eligible men, currently being circulated by the Ad Hoc Committee.

Those wishing information on the draft pledge or the Vietnam Convocation may contact the committee by writing: The Ad Hoc Committee for a Vietnam Convocation c/o Robert D. Cahn, 235 Johnson Hall, University of Washington.

Uncle Henry

THE ENVIRONMENT MUTHUH:
EVOLUTION & ECOLOGY

So you want to be a rock & roll star and you have no pet colors, likes, dislikes or thirteen year old speed-freaklets. And an Evil horoscope? Wow—have you ever thought of playing funk?

A few days ago I wandered into the house of Uncle Henry, and spent several hours discussing how a rock group obtains and nurtures Being, develops a tolerance for Strange, defends its head, and intersects with various clusters of peoples whom Henry is expected to entertain-enlighten and/or reduce to immediately conscious viscera. Out Front, Jack, sometimes it gets a little tricky...

The musicians in Henry are a little older than most new rock groups—they average around their mid twenties—and a consciousness of age runs through their approach to organizing and maintaining a group. First, three members are married, and the group, having gone through the "usual hippy changes," (all quotes are approximate as I did not have a tape recorder and my pen hand kept growing long and paralyzed) wants to get into being a group full time without hassling about members celebrating new found freedom by splitting for New York on the night of an engagement.

The band has—as a group of personalities—an organic feeling, having started out (with the exception of an ex-jazz bassist) as folk musicians playing "country, Rev. Gary Davis...things that were popular on the Ave three years ago." The group—in varying combinations—has made up a total of eight musical units in the past, ranging from a bluegrass group (called "The Boondockers," if you can dig) through jug bands to the Electric Headband, a rock group which was essentially Uncle Henry before He was named.

The Headband/Henry began in Bellingham where most of the members were attending Western Reserve and bouncing from major to major (a couple of members have four or more years of college, and one even graduated, though he is reformed now and is allowed to talk to reporters, score dope etc., same as everybody else.)

Their first drummer was a relatively old-time professional (ten years of playing all sorts of music) and had a lot to do with turning the group into a working band. "The best thing he did for us was to push us." But he was a diabetic and finally got into Cristian Science giving up insulin in the process. A second drummer was found who, at present, is in the process of leaving, while the other band members hassle with finding a drummer with a feel for the things the group is doing.

First gigs were strange: multi-media-events for the art department at Western, which led to a similar exhibition at Portland State where an off-duty policewoman, attending a cultural affair in the ordinarily responsible world of academe, disapproved of a dance which two people were doing while the band played 'Caress Me Baby' (a nice song to get out of hand on). And backed by nothing more than the authority of her own righteous indignation and the complaints of a janitor, she managed to close a performance.

Further Bellingham Follies followed, and Henry decided to move to Seattle and crash the Big Time-baby. A local Clubowner took them into associateship (saving himself the trouble of filing union contracts, paying scale etc.), in return for giving the group food, shelter and exposure. A lid lasts the house twenty-four hours—or the one I know of did, they may be more moderate at other times—and a severe blind munchy could ravage a fair sized mom and pop grocery. Henry finally reformed and gave up exposing himself indiscriminately after the food and shelter got hung up somewhere along the line.

The house, as a community, has a sense of function beyond promoters and clubs; someone (probably me, I don't remember) mentioned that the band was worth whatever hassle it caused if it just gave musicians a chance to play and groove together, and provided a non-brutal way to cover rent. The house was originally obtained, from a rare and understanding landlord, broken down and junk strewn; and everyone did a full scale cleaning and groovy-object-insertion project on it, turning it into a sort of family symbol. Music is still the primary art, but the house also throws off photographs—see photos in this issue—paintings and other non-musical secondary manifestations of the heads and highs drifting through the inside. My tour was one of the few "and this is Richard's room" American house inspections I've ever done that meant something.

Police Chief Frank C. Ramon
Seattle Police Department
Public Safety Building
Seattle, Washington

Dear Frank,

May 14, 1968

I wish to call to your attention a problem affecting the entire business area in the vicinity of 7th and Stewart.

The 13th House, at 1818 Stewart, creates noise at early morning hours and attracts a type of clientel that is a major concern and nuisance to all legitimate business.

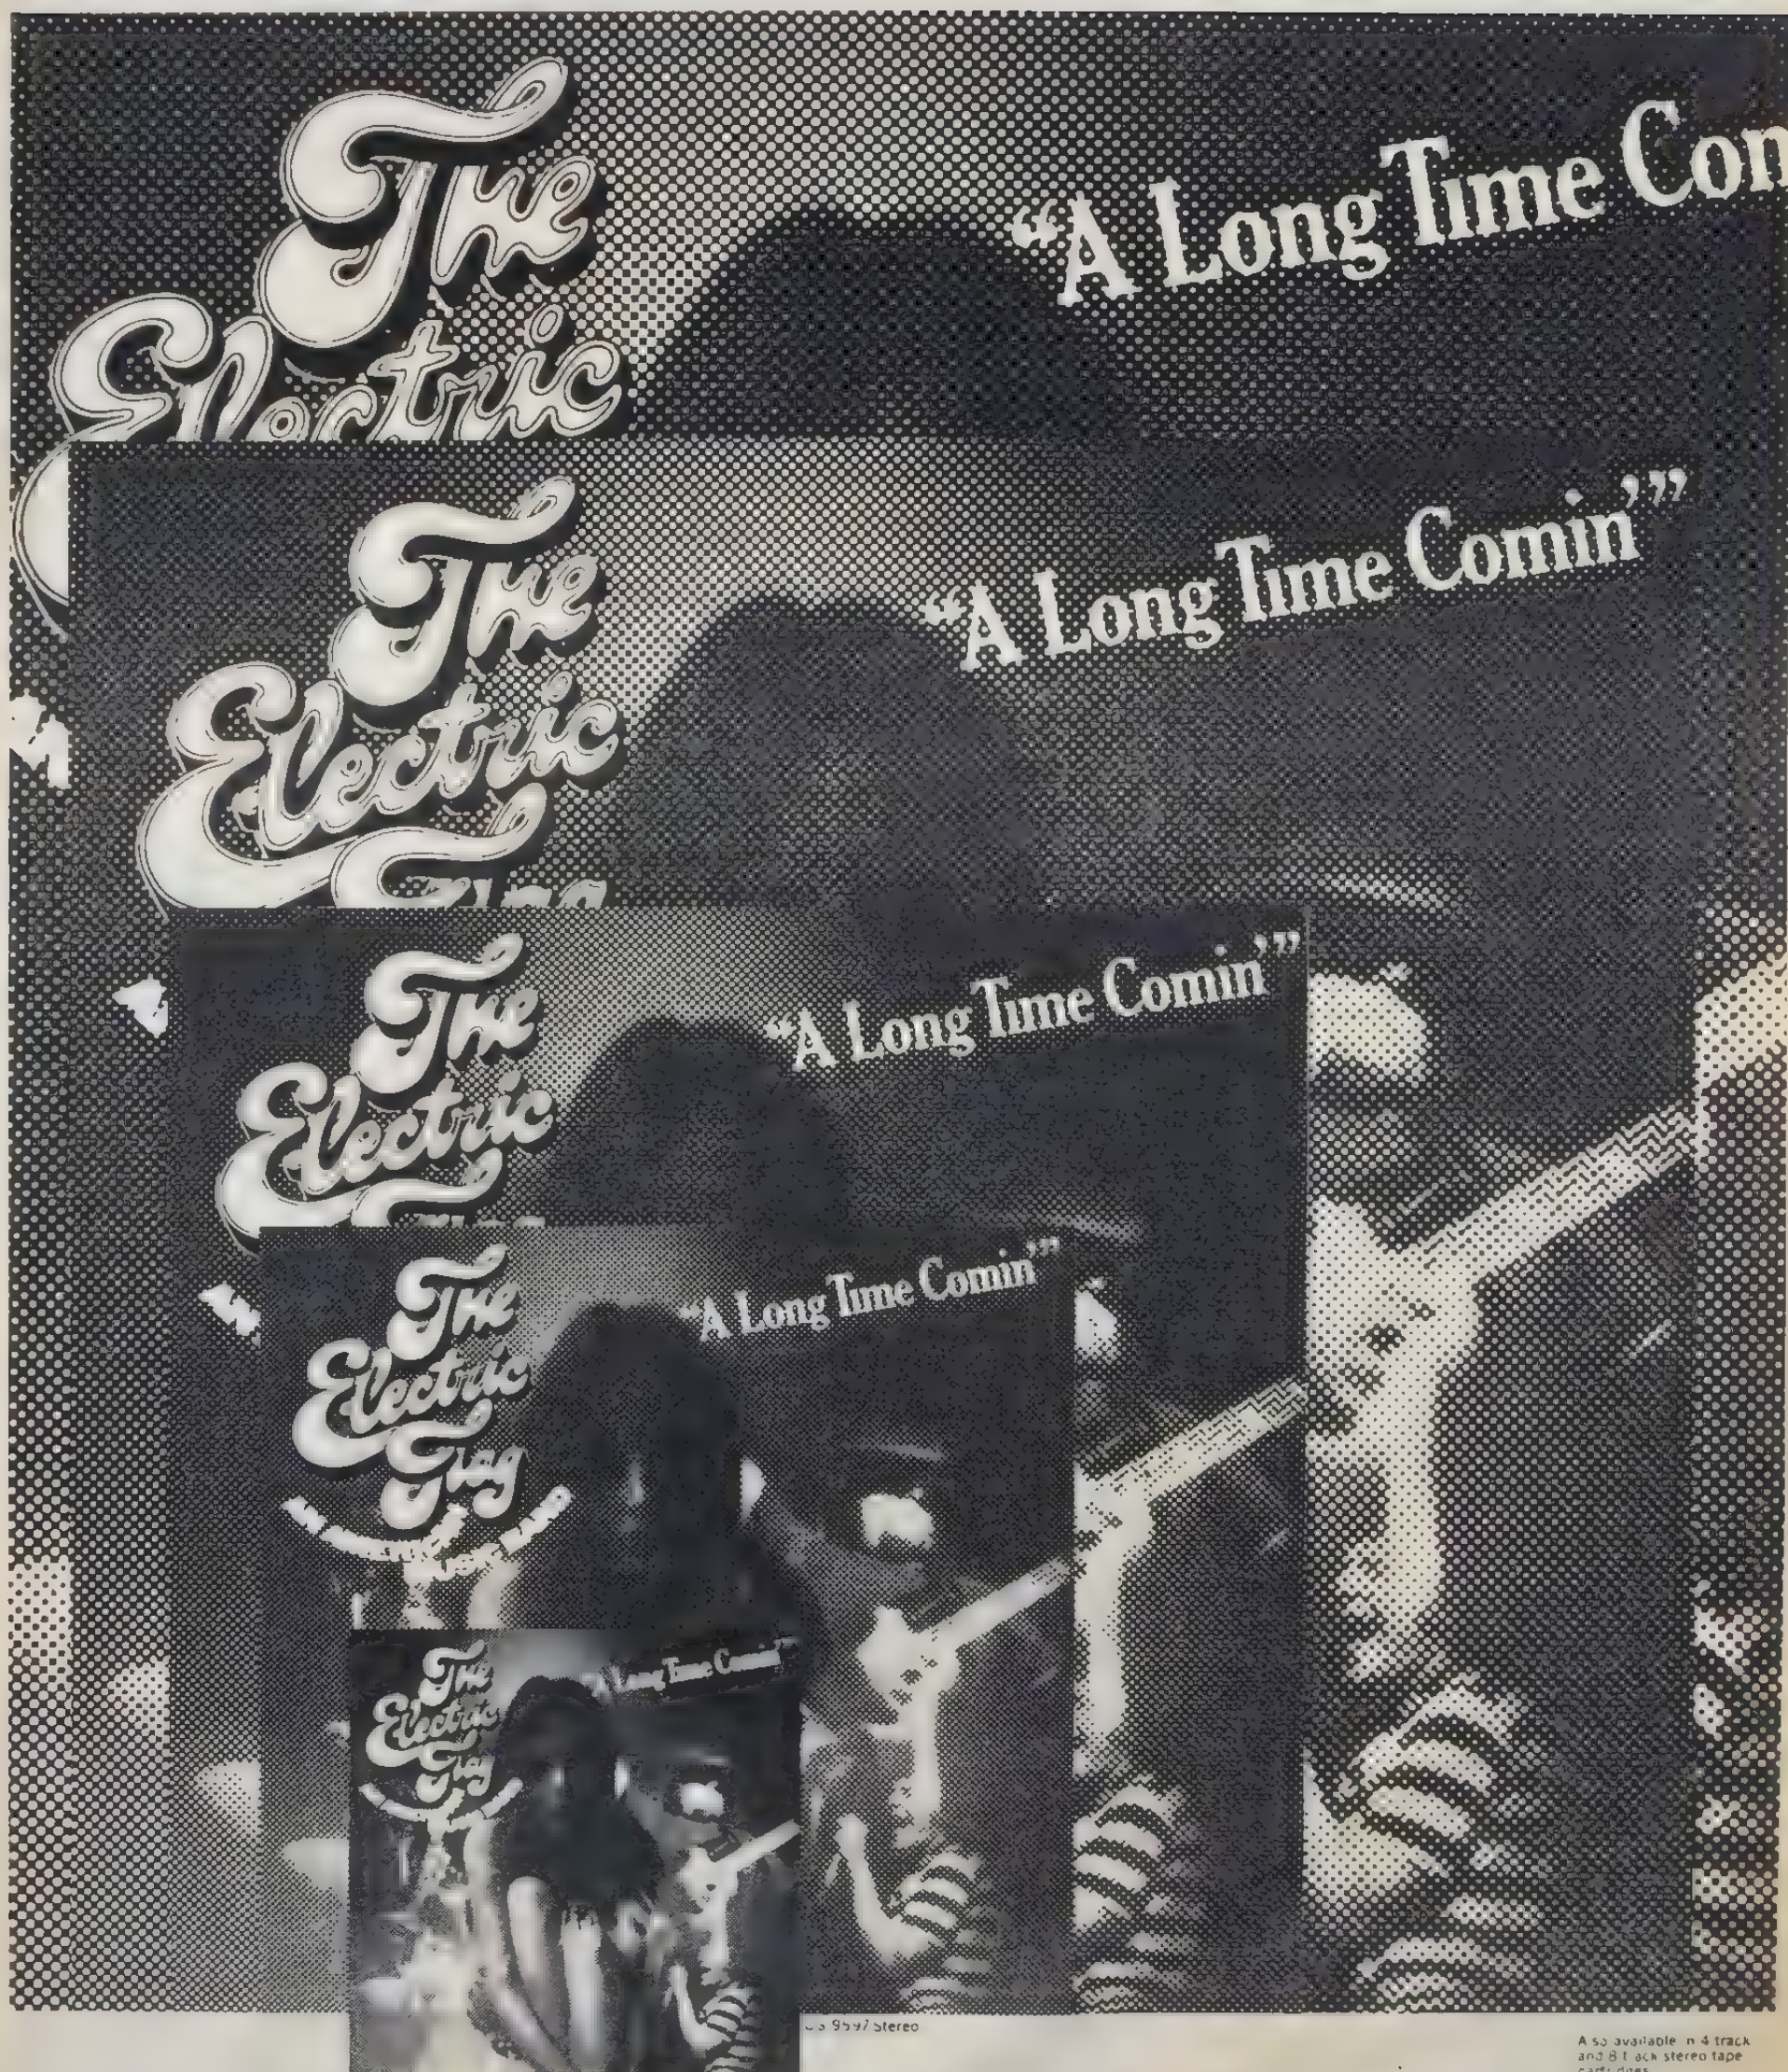

I realize your department has much to do dealing with the general welfare of the City but I would appreciate any assistance you can give to help us solve this serious threat to our neighborhood.

On any night of the week if you walk down first ave or up union between 5th and 7th or around pioneer square or in an about a half-a-dozen other local "hot" spots you'll hear rocking sounds coming out of one door and then blending and being lost in the amplified half-noise that comes to you a few doors on. So the city learns to live with and sometimes even delight in the music that escapes to the street. The areas mentioned are active ones: lots of people and lots of sound. Now there is one little rock-house—the 13th house—hidden on 7th near Stewart that emits a little sound which also happens to be hip: i.e. not only the musicians but the owners and the clientele dress like St. Vinne's racks. And that makes a little sound a big noise to some complainant who sent the letter reprinted here to Police Chief Frank Ramon. (Addressed "Dear Frank", you are now invited to read it.) On May 15 a xerox copy of this letter was brought to the owners of the 13th House with the signature of the complainant razored off. The officer carrying the little document warned Dan Johnson, one of the house's seven equal share owners, that "Either you quiet down or we will put you and the musicians in jail for disturbing the peace." Dan inturn requested that the name of the complainer be revealed to him so that he might go talk to him and discover the specifics of his complaint: whether it was reasonable and if so how the problem might be corrected. The officer was not interested and refused to indulge Dan the name of the noise informer. This calls for a brief analysis.

1. The 13th House is in a peculiar and favorable situation regarding noise trauma. Unlike the areas noted above when the music's playing it's near nothing that's open. (cf. map)
2. The Owners had, already in the past, made a special point of asking those proprietors that were open around the corner or through the alley or whatever whether or not they were being bothered. They were not.
3. With the lesson of that Light-Show business last year and the additional evidence of problems for hip-type-shops in the district, it is frankly self-evident that the complaint was ledged not against the sound—which by reason of its isolation disturbs nobody—but against the people. (You are now invited to read the letter again.)
4. Conclusion: should the police dept. or any other protector of the public head "get tough" through one more addition of this old, old harrassment story the defense will not be based on biased and half-hidden complaints.

LOTUS AMONG THE METAL EATERS.....

RC-ZZC

(Last issue Elmer "Precious" Lotus, retired dealer, attempted to find gainful employment.)

Lotus nuzzled the foggy air, Brushed against the smokey scenes:

Child of his Age, too dazed to watch it pass;

Until he lay down beside Evil Meth-Am Krystal Kween
And was stuck slow in the Mighty Keep of Fast.

This is no place, he cried For fat, pale and quiet fellows--

I'm starving but my mouth can only speak.

My brain feels Hasty-fried And my skin is turning yellow,

(I believe I have been chewing on my cheek.)

I've been a bigot all my life, And believed the Master Race

Had God & Justice solely for their own.

But since my strange new wife Has detained me in this place

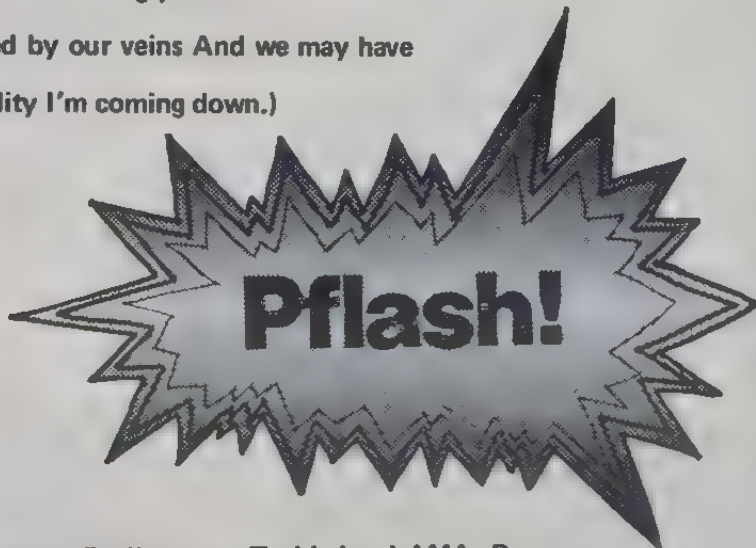

It's surprising how my Tolerance has grown.

We have cinders on our brains (My wife & I) and bugs inside us--

The universe has turned an ugly brown.

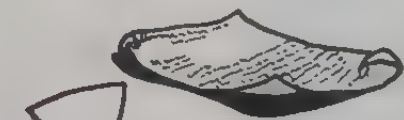

Out bones are strangled by our veins And we may have hepatitis

(There's a possibility I'm coming down.)

Lotus, desperate, finally wrote To his local AMA, Dear Sirs,

"Help me please, before my mind is gone."

(He got a letter back) "There is one known antidote,
Believe the American Way,
Love Christ, shoot straight & keep the TV on.

("PS Sorry about your mind--please find enclosed a number of surplus anti-Medicare pamphlets, in case you wish to improve the remainder.)"

:LOTUS FINALLY GOT HIS HEAD STRAIGHT -- OTHER ADDICTS MAY NOT BE SO LUCKY.

DUMP TRUCK CUNNICK BABY

Late '68: the Elections are over and a third party--the Dada Suck Universal Resurrection--to the immense surprise of all but a small group of pollsters associated with Zig-Zag market research, has won. Some national changes were gone thru--MAJOR NATIONAL MONUMENTS WERE MODIFIED: one out of every three major West Coast pawn shops were dissolved and mixed into a latex base paint which was then poured over the Golden Gate bridge in a mass Color-For-The-Streets-Of-Heaven Festival. Revlon contracted to lipstick a ring around the Space Needle in Kiss of Flame Pink (the shade, later renamed Le Bouche du Dieu Rose, became something of a homosexual fad.) The Statue of Liberty was renamed the Whitman Memorial Mannahatta Stash and Public Loading Zone; Allen Ginsberg was appointed curator and given an office at the approximate location of the pineal gland.

The space originally intended for Lyndon's rejected ("the ugliest thing I've ever seen") oil portrait was filled by fragments of the Unknown Soldier who was exhumed and scotch taped to the gallery wall by a giggling, chattering gang of Arab refugee street-children who were especially imported for the ceremony.

The Society In Favor of Flying Things was commissioned to find a replacement for the eagle as national Bird and after heated debate between the factions of third-finger-extension and void-of-carrier-pigeon, settled on Rain.

Press Secretary Stan Lee issued a series of exclamation points (!...!!...!!!) over Telestar Simultaneous Broadcast which, upon subsequent ignition, were revealed to be composed of flatus, a legacy of the Previous Administration. (One unfortunate incident marred the occasion: Hubert Humphry attempted to entrap one as a souvenir, and his left lung was severely damaged in the resultant explosion.)

A Department of the Convex was instituted and promptly nationalized several West Virgin' open pit mines and Lenore Kandel's high school health text--all of which were later anointed with precious fluids and pronounced shrines by Tenderloin Brownie Pack 17.

Tension in the Middle East eased considerably after the State Department sent the Israeli Sabras a deputation of Southwestern Indians on a Native American Church-Zionist Cultural and Cactus exchange program. Some consternation was caused when a squadron of Israeli jets sandpainted fourteen miles into Jordanian territory, but a UN fact-finding force ruled that the designs were "ephemeral and certifiably grooby."

American Negroes were all pronounced either Black People or White People (arbitrarily) and Mayor Daley of Chicago was named Last Living Nigger and sentenced to ceremonial lynching. He was later rescued by Sammy Davis Jr. who used his influence, plus the gratitude of certain Israelis in High places, to secure Daley a gig as Hog Butcher to Haifa.

East St. Louis as nationalized, framed and signed in the Southeastern corner by Norman Rockwell; Marshall McLuhan was given a sinecure as Librarian at the Dallas Book Depository and a communal farm and rope plantation was instituted on the grassy knoll.

An entire issue of Peotry/Chicago was given over to the pre-Dr. Strange adventures of the Ancient One and a good time was had by all.

COMING

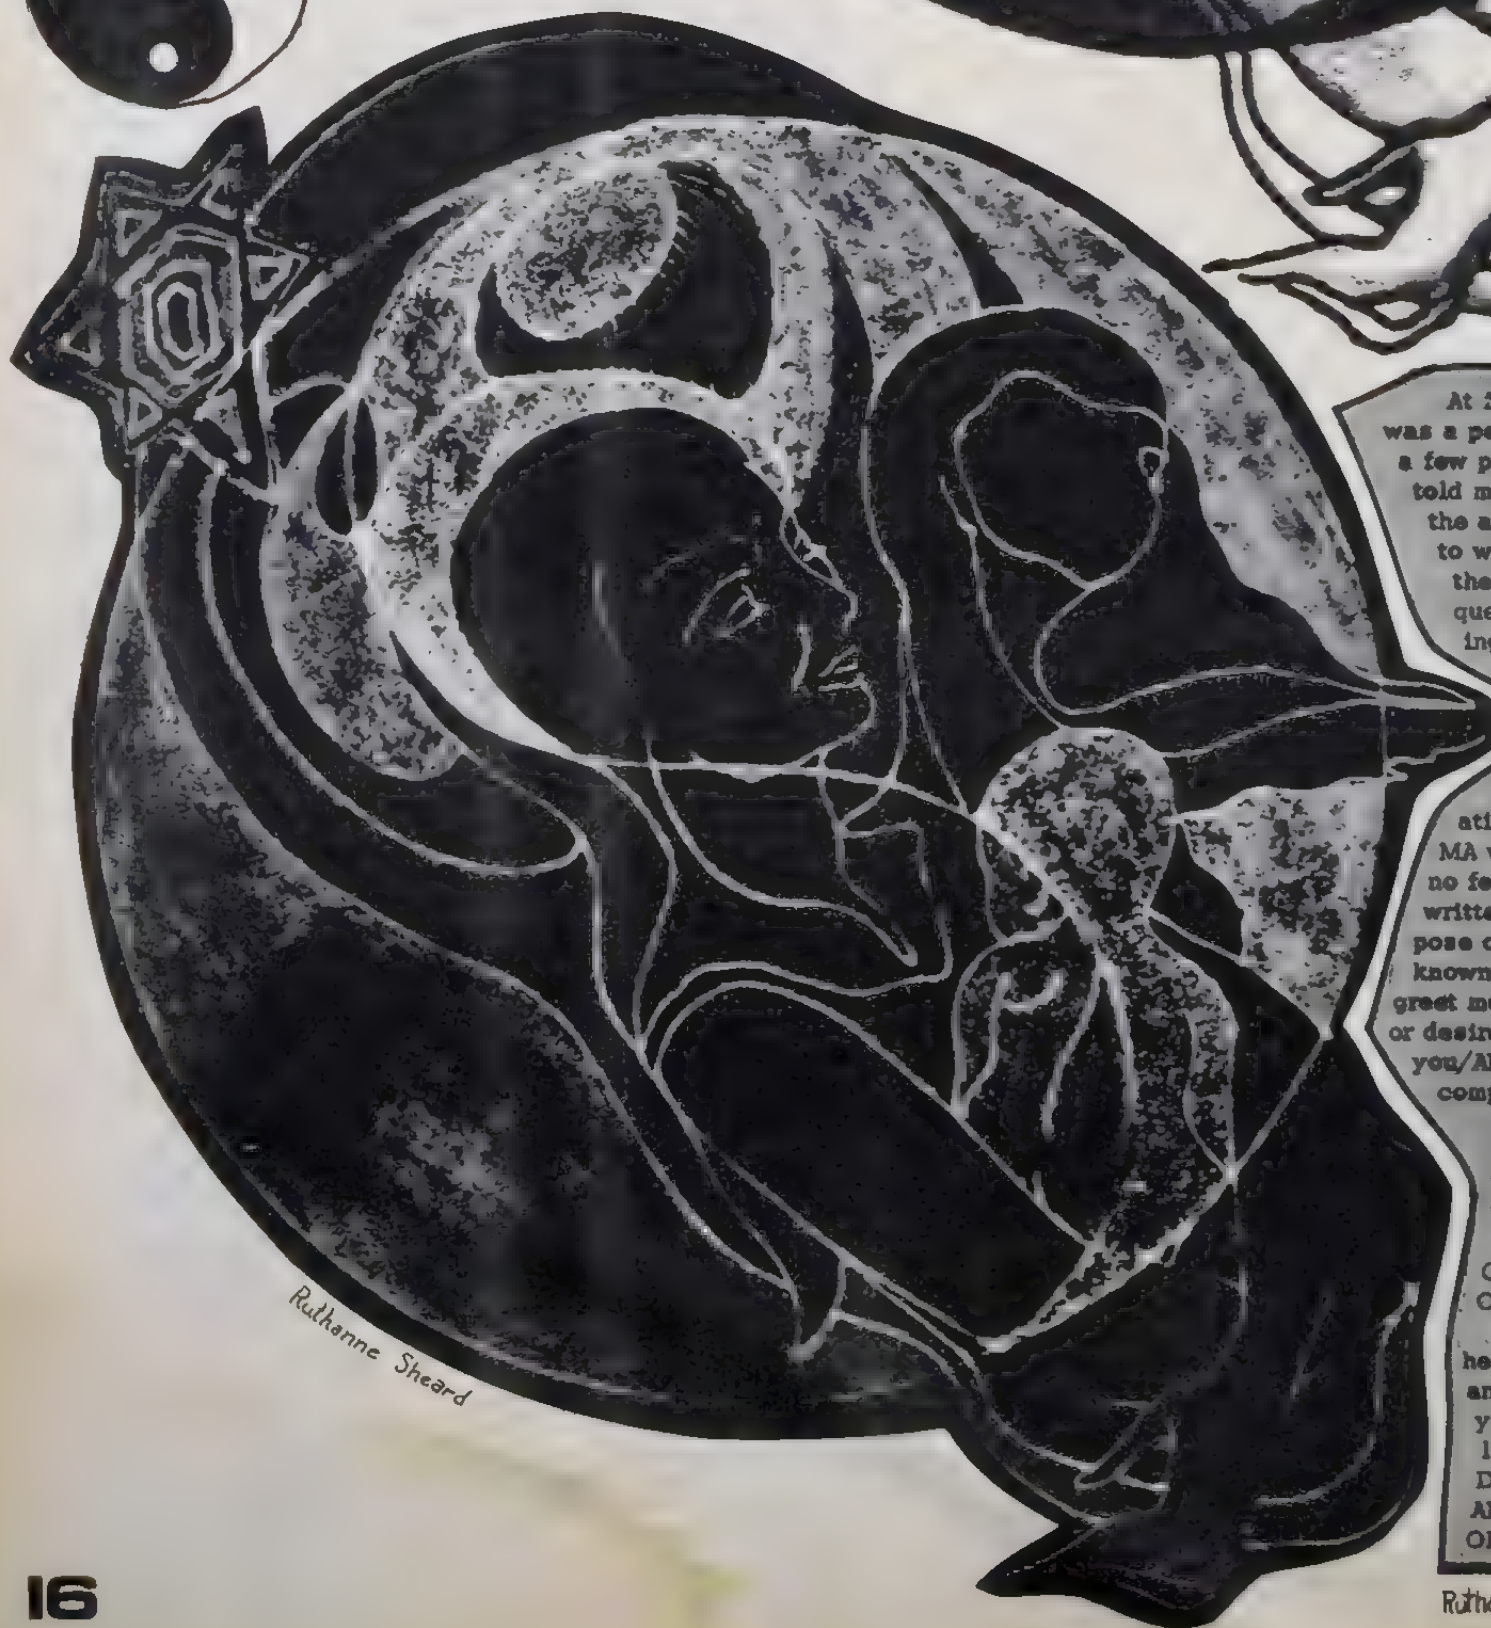

I PERCEIVED THE BABY, suspended in the air above a vast golden desert. To the left of the child, there was a pyramid. A BRILLIANT, but not at all blinding, golden sun bathed both the baby and the air in clear golden light. THE SMALL sweet creature was moving its body instinctively in a fluid swimming motion, and its eyes were closed.

I WATCHED this dear being moving blindly, doing what it was born to do, and trying to 'swim' in a totally arid environment. At the sight of this my heart went out to my child with all the compassion a mother can feel. I began to weep with love and tenderness at the vision of my baby's labor, and discovered I was crying for myself. I WAS THE CHILD. My tears became deep, pulsing sobs. The Sun's rays emitted an identical pulse of light, and the sun began to step up the vibrations' frequency, growing increasingly more intense, until the intensity reached a point of being uncontainable and the atmosphere broke into unexpressable liquid release.

BEAUTIFULLY NOW, total environment complimented the instinctive fluid motion. So comfortable was it with the purpose of existence, that the environment and the child became ONE, and all awareness became infinite.

Ruthanne Sheard

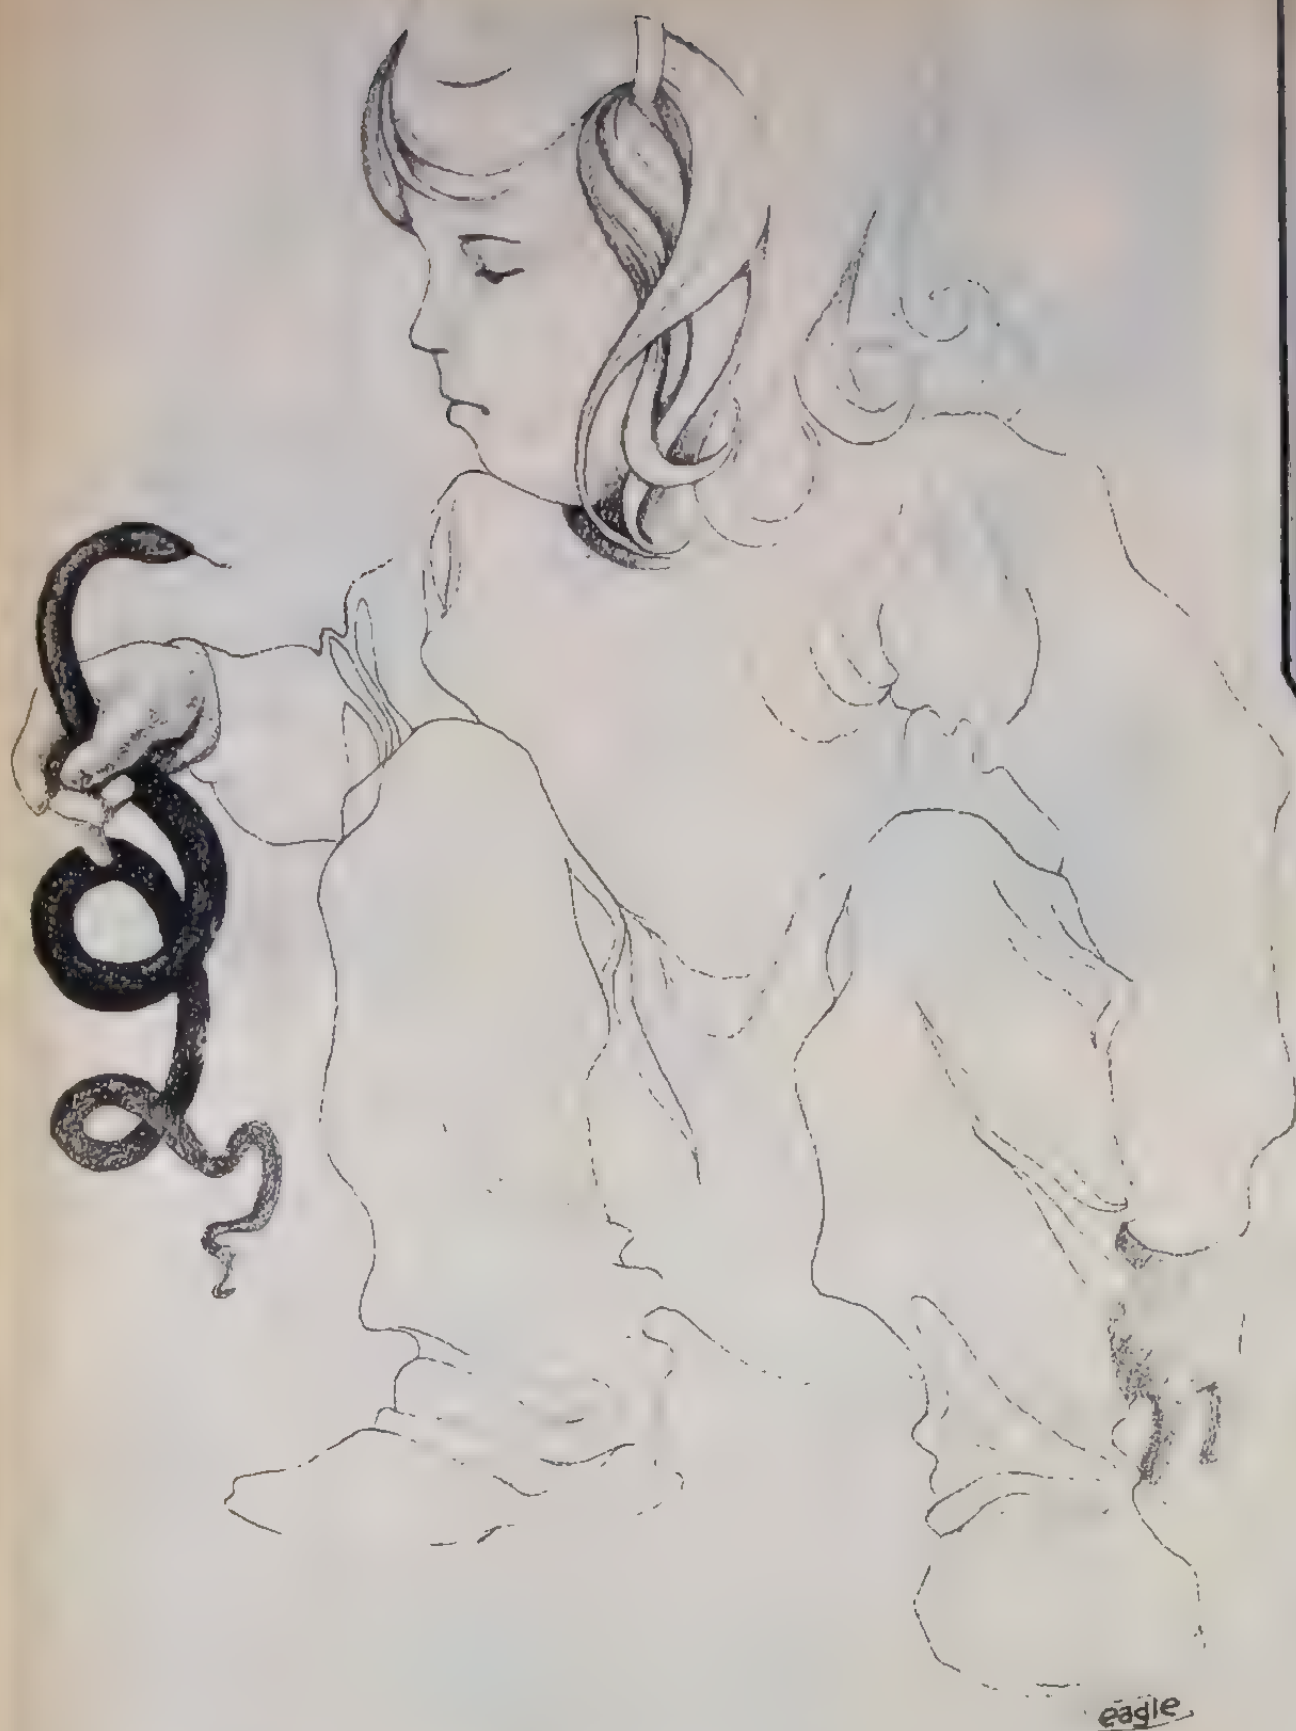

Ruthanne Sheard

At first I thought the experience was a personal one, and I told only a few people about it. On of them told me about the significance of the ancient symbolism. I began to wonder why I had felt I was the child — and I asked the question: "Who are you moving from my mind?" And a voice inside my mind answered: "I am the expression, I am the experience consolidated, updated. I am the preparation, the sublimation of KARMA weighing upon time. Have no fear, I must be heard and the written word will serve the purpose of release. But I must be known with "hopeless" faith. Don't greet me with anxiety, or rationale, or desire's dream of escape — for you/ALL are spawned of justice's compassion, and love's wisdom. TOMORROW IS NOW TODAY. See one another as you see your selves. For you are ONE WITHIN EACH OTHER — the SECOND COMING OF THE CHRIST CHILD.

Know this in your hearts, and let all the joy and beauty of life within you be for the infinite knowledge and Wisdom of your Divine Parentage. ALL WITHIN ONE, ONE WITHIN ALL.

THE HEART SUTRA

OM NAMO BHAGAVATYAI ARYA-PRAJNAPARAMITAYAI! Homage to the perfection of wisdom, the lovely, the holy! Avalokita, the holy Lord and Bodhisattva, was moving in the deep course of the wisdom which has gone beyond. He looked down from on high, he beheld but five heaps, and he saw that in their own-being they were empty. Here, O Sariputra, form is emptiness and the very emptiness is form; emptiness does not differ from form, form does not differ from emptiness; whatever is form, that is emptiness, whatever is emptiness, that is form, the same is true of feelings, perceptions, impulses and consciousness. Here, O Sariputra, all Dharmas are marked with emptiness; they are not produced or stopped, not defiled or immaculate, not deficient or complete. Therefore, O Sariputra, in emptiness there is no form, nor feeling, nor perception, nor impulse, nor consciousness; no eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, mind; no forms, sounds, smells, tastes, touchables or objects of mind; no sight-organ element, and so forth, until we come to: no mind-consciousness element; there is no ignorance, no extinction of ignorance, and so forth, until we come to: there is no decay and death, no extinction of decay and death. There is no suffering, no origination, no stopping, no path. There is no cognition, no attainment and no non-attainment. Therefore, O Sariputra, it is because of his non-attainmentness that a Bodhisattva, through having relied on the perfection of wisdom, dwells without thought-coverings. In the absence of thought-coverings he has not been made to tremble, he has overcome what can upset, and in the end he attains to Nirvana. All those who appear as Buddhas in the three periods of time fully awake to the utmost, right and perfect enlightenment because they have relied on the perfection of wisdom. Therefore one should know the Prajnaparamita as the great spell, the spell of great knowledge, the utmost spell, the unequalled spell, allayer of all suffering, in truth-for what could go wrong? By the Prajnaparamita has this spell been delivered. It runs like this: gone, gone, gone beyond, gone altogether beyond, O what an awakening, all-hail!—this completes the heart of perfect wisdom.

Gate Gate Paragate Parasamgate Bodhi Svaha.
Iti Prajnaparamita-hridayam Samaptam.

TRANSLATOR E. CONZE

To reconnect consciousness with the unconscious, to make consciousness symbolical, is to reconnect words with silence; to let the silence in. If consciousness is all words and no silence, the unconscious remains unconscious.

A play of light, an iridescence, in the empty air. Against gravity; against the gravity of literalism, which keeps our feet on the ground. Against weighty words, the baggage of traditional meaning and the burden of the law; travel light. Gravity is from the fall, and is to be defied; deliver us from the pull of the fundamental. Practice levity, and levitation. Oh for the wings of a dove, the spirit; the winged words that soar, the hyperbole or ascension.

Get the nothingness back into words. The aim is words with nothing to them; words that point beyond themselves rather than to themselves; transparencies, empty words. Empty words, corresponding to the void in things.

The antinomy between mind and body, word and deed, speech and silence, overcome. Everything is only a metaphor; there is only poetry.

Hereby the duality, the discrepancy between mind and body, mundane form and supramundane formlessness, is annihilated. Then the body of the Enlightened One becomes luminous in appearance, convincing and inspiring by its mere presence, while every word and every gesture, and even his silence, communicate the overwhelming reality of the Dharma. It is not the audible word through which people are converted and transformed in their innermost being, but through that which goes beyond words and flows directly from the presence of the saint: the inaudible mantric sound that emanates from his heart. Therefore the perfect saint is called "Muni," the "Silent One."

LOVE'S BODY

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Dave Bearman, M.D.

Lex, "bennies", "meth" are all forms of amphetamine-speed-pharmacologically a stimulant drug. Its ability to elevate mood, increase sexual interest, induce a state of wakefulness, alertness and decrease fatigue is well known. When injected intravenously this sudden pleasurable state and feeling of elation is often referred to as a flash; however, continued high dose oral or intravenous use of amphetamines is not without health consequences, many of which according to the task force report on narcotics and drug abuse of the Presidents Commission on Law Enforcement and Justice Administration "in reviewing claims made about the undesirable outcomes of amphetamine use" (and of marijuana and opiate use as well) one is struck by the lack of support of the claims advanced by respectable and well intentioned people, including government officials, to the effect that these drugs CAUSE crime and accidents. I shall try to discuss only possible medical effects of speed use.

Acute toxic affects are an extension of therapeutic action and usually results from an overdose. The average therapeutic dose of dexadrine is 2.5 mg. to 5.0 mg. orally and its effects are seen in one half to one hour. If given subcutaneously effects are seen in 5 minutes.

Restlessness, dizziness, shaking, talkativeness, tenseness, irritability, insomnia, fatigue, depression, anxiety, confusion, restlessness, delirium, hallucinations, panic states and suicidal tendencies are some of the acute central nervous system toxic manifestations.

Cardiac toxicity may result in palor, flushing, increased or decreased blood pressure, cardiac irregularities and rarely cardiac collapse.

With chronic use tolerance builds so that larger doses become necessary to achieve the desired central effects. Although severe reactions have been known to occur with doses of 30 mg. and death has followed rapid injection of 120 mg. people may use up to 1700 mg. at one "hit" and up to 15,000 mg. over the course of one day if tolerance has developed.

Fatal amphetamine poisoning usually terminates in convulsion and coma with cerebral hemorrhage being the main pathology.

Chronic use of amphetamines almost always results in paranoid behavior and increased but non-productive activity—often of a compulsive nature such as cleaning and re-cleaning ones kit. Large doses of speed used over time is usually followed by mental depression or let down feeling. This probably arises from lack of sleep and appetite, and the hyper-activity and expenditure of energy while strung out.

The paranoid state is described as feeling that people are watching, that friends are coping out, apartments are "bugged" and that bushes and trees are fuzzy. However these persecutory feelings are usually realistically related to the fact that speed is illegal. One other aspect is that simultaneously many speed freaks realize they are paranoid and try to make a game of cops and robbers out of it.

Some devices used to counteract the psychotoxic effects have been 1) "will power"—often tried but infrequently successful, 2) talking someone down—sometimes helpful, 3) forcing oneself to eat, drink, and sleep regularly—this often fails with chronic use, 4) use of depressants to control confusion and paranoid behavior. Physicians may prescribe and some street people use barbituates. Other street people may prefer opiates (see previous column "The Fix on Heroin Health Hang-ups").

The use of unsterile needles and impure drugs is another source of disease and has been mentioned in this column previously. It can pose a substantial problem and should not be minimized.

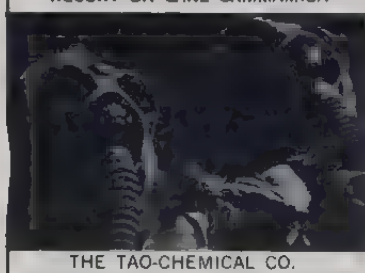

One obvious non-medical risk is that non-medical use of drugs is illegal and can lead to incarceration.

PIANO DROP

How far can you drop a piano? Dave Stewart told Helix upon returning from his European honeymoon that when he picked up on a newspaper, he vaguely remembered as the London Daily, on a flight between Dublin and Copenhagen his eye was caught by a front page account of the Duval spectacular.

Dave, being innocent of knowing what such a discovery portends in the area of human communications and world revolution, did not get a clipping but repeated the story approximately thus: "...The paper gave two different stories surrounding the event. The first was a straight reporting...about 3,000 people in bright costumes gathered in the country side around Seattle, USA to witness the dropping of a broken piano into a large ditch from a helicopter. "...The paper also told of a preceding account in another paper which prompted an alert news fan to call his favorite rock station and ask, "what was the sound of a piano dropping?" to which the deejay alertly replied, "you will have to go to Seattle, Washington to find the answer to that question. Nobody else knows."

Perhaps the thousand dollar a week media men in this country will see from this lesson that a piano cannot be trusted further nor it could be dropped, though could be thrown half a stone leagueward. Buy a Ford.

Jack Large

At first appearance, the Puget Consumer Co-Op (3423 E. Denny Way in the Madrona District) seems to be a grocery shopping center for that small and soulful portion of the over-30 set who are turned on but too busy for dope. People who could be trusted with their own families. They are mostly all the unhappy people who have tried to appear happy in these times and who would be likely to buy rose hip powder, carob powder, yogurt and lentils. Everybody works for nothing and nobody has to work if they don't want to. But everybody works. Nobody yells at little black kids who play hide and seek in the shelves and the same kids would decidedly not appreciate any boosting. Many of them would undoubtedly view it as right-wing treachery worthy of an ex-commie spy turned high school auditorium stumper for the Mother's March Against Pot.

The scene unfolds, as we take a closer look at this place, this medieval market place. Pretty girls are everywhere. Gretchen is the one you see.

No matter who comes in the place, Zim projects, he emotes, he fondles the receptive senses in every Co-Op shopper. Zim is, so far, earning his money, as well he might, having just been appointed by the Board of Directors, which is composed of Co-Op members. They vote on it but it is probably not much of a political thing, judging from some of the bags represented in all the Co-Op committees which are responsible for the perpetuation of their grocery cooperative experiment.

Zim says, "No shit man, I mean you ought to see all the beautiful things that happen at the Co-Op. Everything is cheaper because we take advantage of the wasteful nature of the bureaucracy in the name of protecting the public and we buy things whose attractive paper label is defaced by careless transportation agents for less bread."

Helix: "You buy damaged goods and sell them as damaged goods."

"Right, and we have dozens of healthfood items that cannot be gotten anywhere other than the Pike Place Market, because we buy in bulk and a volunteer packaging crew repackages everything in new bags and bottles, paying strict attention to quantity measurements."

Shopping at the co-op is fun. It's a trip and if you shop stoned you would probably be cheated emotionally by shopping anywhere else. This is not a commercial, even though Zim is undoubtedly licking the promo off his lips at this very minute, but an eyewitness account of a rare and revolutionary, mind-expanding grocery store that, like so many other underground experiments in communications and survival, needs help. Anybody can help, but F.B.I. men and Joe Pyne should probably earn their merit badges in subsonic basketweaving and oriental stew before reading J. Edgar Hoover's best seller "Up the Anal Canal with Gun and Camera."

THE RHINEHART DEFENSE (Cont. from last issue)

Keith Rhinehart's defense effort stimulated a lot of research, "Louis Reed recalled. "our group, "The American Brotherhood Alliance," has also done some. Keith made a long hard fight against that sodomy prosecution on constitutional issues. The most fascinating aspect, though, was Jimmy Miller's post-trial confession, detailing the type of police "interrogation" which was used to get from him that sodomy accusation of Keith, whom Jimmy hadn't met. Under Washington law, accusation is "proof;" no corroboration is needed."

"Jimmy was already in custody, for car prowling; just sixteen, but with a long police record. The detectives warned him to "co-operate." He was afraid he'd be sent up for months if he didn't. Result: Rhinehart has been in prison for a year. Not even (L.A. attorney) Gladys Root's Superior Court appeal (Nov. '65) could prevent that."

The "most internationally tested physical phenomena medium alive," (trumpet, materialization, apport) and the "most publicized" (London, Cairo, Tokyo) K.M.R. hadn't had trouble with the local police until a TV show he'd produced, "Way Out," (Apr. 6th, '65) stirred the wrath of some influential locals. Days later, detectives knocked on his front door and arrested him on a "morals charge." KTVW Tacoma quickly cancelled the series.

"Gov. Evans will get OUR series (tapes) during the second week of June. We're only asking that he accept them for "due scrutiny." Meanwhile we're trying to make contact with INS."

Meanwhile the church that Keith organized in 1955, the Aquarian Foundation, continues to regard him as its guru.

3 BANDS

Although individual members of Henry had written songs previous to the bands formation, they originally began performing--like most groups--with other people's material. That route, however, ultimately leads to death/insanity and the carvororous O'Day circuit of the vegetable-zu.

They began writing their own material, as a group, when the abortive sustenance and exposure deal gave them a short respite from hustling to survive. I was told of one multi-partner maculate conception which produced a song--words, tempo, tune, individual instrumental roles etc.--in less than an hour. There was less excitement over the particulars of the song than over the fact that it had been written as a group effort. They were developing a special consciousness of 'group' beyond the simple coordination of the musicians while on stage.

There are other, probably easier, ways of meeting the Mahareshi, making a great deal of money and getting deeply into sixteen year old chicks, but music does provide a groovy, non-oppressive ego outlet; and every so often the music comes out right & you can ride a lot of evil out of your head on it. Besides, you have got a good house.

You know what a Be-In is...There will be Freaks, if you know a freak, bring it, if you are a freak, bring yourself. Of course this is all Free Association. Uh... There will be things. We are thinking of all the fine props which will be available for your use such as trees and grass and feet on people. And other things to play with. This is quite a stuff. (Maybe pennants and flags about) IF YOU COME THERE WILL BE A LOT OF PEOPLE THERE. Which means you will have extra added fun. There will be no night until it comes. M-hm... And listen to your heart beat we may even provide some dissonance to provide or to create, whichever, small eddies om om...in, small eddies in this thoroughly uncontrolled Absolutely Free aleatory thing.

Well, basically this is PICNIC IN THE PARK, which is to bring things and do your thing-eat, play, play, sing, chant, meditate...Weather Permitting some will come and meditate from 8 til noon this Sunday of Festival. Rather this is PLAYING IN THE PARK. FUS will get body paints and maybe generators for record players. Later in the night many will go up on the hill and worship at St. Marks. Maybe Kites, Guitars, Poetry, Flowers, Sutras and a Bodhi Tree. The idea is a combination of Medieval Festival and Inner-Be-In with Indian Music chants clothes. Oh, don't forget to bring nuts and bread for the squirrels and birds. Afterwards we will clean up and dkq. What's that? I don't know, it just happened. East end of Ravenna Park - Wooded Meadow - Sun. 26th of May.

What does your banker think of the motor car?

Dear Sir or Madame...

Help! There is a pitiful situation right here in Seattle, and you folks are just about our only hope. There are sixty of us confined in the U.S. Naval Brig, Pier 91, and we have only one Helix--your Christmas issue. Needless to say, its getting sorta worn near the edges, but the Man won't let us have any money (they put it in a "savings account" for us) to subscribe, and therefore we, in the form of "I", have been reduced to begging for crumbs of contemporary reading matter, unless you count the sport page of the "P.I."

You may be interested in knowing that the Coast Guard Seaman who wrote you about problems in that branch of the military is now a prisoner here--I myself am being held for a 3 month term for being AWOL 2 1/2 months (by way of qualifications...).

This note will, of course, have to be smuggled out, so I would appreciate it if you would not use my real name, as it is an offense, here in this free and great democracy of ours, to write letters to newspapers.

Thank you for reading this--Up The Revolution!! P.S. Yes, I've been to Viet Nam, but I've also lived in Haight.

Editor Helix

This is to acknowledge receipt of the first issue of "Helix", and to thank you for your interest in the men here and my work with them. We all enjoyed this issue very much and are looking forward to receiving more.

There are so many men here who have not heard from a single person in so long that they feel as though they have been completely forgotten. This gift will help show them that there is someone outside who really cares about them.

Although we cannot repay you in money, please be assured of our prayers and blessings.

Dear Helix:

Having gotten your address through UPS, we are in hopes you shall be able to give us a little help, our friends...

We are in the process of forming a rock band. Auditions for lead, bass, piano/organ, and drums, will be held in Spokane. We ask that all applicants have their own equipment; the only other definite requirement is very heavy musical knowledge. (Although a liberal disposition would be useful.)

Qualifications, group experience, and personal information may be sent to:

TERRAN ENTERPRISES, INC. (NORTHWEST)
POST OFFICE BOX 1039
SPOKANE, WASHINGTON 99210

We would greatly appreciate your making this information known to the musicians in your area. Thank you.

Mr. Harvey:

I am authorized to announce that FILM-MAKERS CO-OPERATIVE, agents for such cinema hallmarkers as Andy Warhol, Shirley Clarke and Jonas Mekas, is looking for Seattle contacts. FILM-MAKERS wants to be able to represent Seattle cinematographers in its new Underground Cinema programs which are opening in theatres all over the country. Any Seattle filmmaker who has film--short, long, 8 or 16 mm--which he fills justifies showing theatrically (as exemplified by the current successful program at the Rivoli)--please contact JAMES LITHGOW, 175 Lexington Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10011, explaining film, length, and any pertinent details.
